HOOVER, AT TOMB OF LINCOLN, ASKS LAW OBEDIENCE

Closes Mid-Western Tour At Shrine of Civil War President

CALLS NATION TO LINCOLN'S TEACHINGS

"No Man In The Country Stands Above Law," President Says

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 17, (AP).—President Hoover closed his tour of the Middle West Wednesday with a plea at the shrine of Abraham Lincoln for obedience and enforcement of the law.

Before going to the granite shaft rising over the remodeled tomb of the Civil War president, Mr. Hoover in an address to the Illinois assembly emphasized the part of state government in the national life and asserted "our machinery of government must shift" to meet changing "economic and social forces."

Busy Day for President.

It was a busy day for the president, beginning with a visit shortly after his arrival in the morning to the old frame structure occupied by Abraham Lincoln before he went to the White House 70 years ago.

Crowds lined his route throughout the day, an immense gathering assembling under the scorching sun at the cemetery. The silence of the crowds was broken by occasional applause.

The president was introduced by Governor Emerson, who said that the president, "like Lincoln," was called from the ranks of the common people to lead our country in an hour of adversity."

The president then called the nation to the teachings of Lincoln that America's heritage "rests upon obedience and enforcement of the law."

"None Stand Above Law."

"There can be no man in our country," he said, "who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law. That the republic cannot admit and still live, for ours is a government of laws and a society of ordered liberty safeguarded only by law."

The president referred to the state legislatures as the "laboratories" for trial of government problems.

The president brought with him Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain; and Secretary Lamont, two sons of Illinois. They were cheered by the Illinois assembly and guests.

Group of 80 grand army veterans of the Civil War gathered at their leader's tomb for the service.

"A nation in its whole lifetime flowers with but a few whose names remain upon the roll of the world in after generations," Mr. Hoover said. "Lincoln after all these years still grows, not only in the hearts of his countrymen, but in the hearts of the people of the world."

Federal Agent Is Under Suspension Following Inquiry

Suspended because of the recent alleged unauthorized exhibitions of Bill H. Henderson, under-cover man, E. G. Wells, federal agent, Wednesday said his suspension dated from midnight Tuesday night pending investigation at Beaumont. Elmer Lanning and Jack Harrington, prohibition agents, would neither affirm nor deny rumors they had been suspended but stated they were taking a vacation of fifteen days duration — beginning on Wednesday morning.

Henderson, who worked under Wells, was discharged by the latter when he learned of an alleged drunken spree Sunday morning, June 7, when Henderson drew a pistol on four local youths at a Paris restaurant. Wells said Henderson's performance was unauthorized and took place while he was sick at his home in Paris.

Wells said he received a telegram from Beaumont notifying him of his suspension during an investigation now in session there.

Action On Motion For New Trial Of Sherman Youth Monday

SHERMAN, June 17, (AP)—Motion for a new trial in the case of J. B. McCaslan, recently convicted of arson in connection with the burning of the Grayson county court house, will come up for final action in district court at Austin Monday, a message from S. A. Philquist, district clerk at Austin, said Wednesday.

The message also stated all other defendants in the Sherman riot cases will be expected to be present in the event the court of its own motion or on the motion of the state, directs a change of venue. There are 14 defendants in the famous Sherman riot cases.

LAMAR SCHOOLS TO GET $9,000, RECHECK SHOWS

Reimbursement For Special Aid Tuition For High School Students

Over $9,000 will be repaid to schools of Lamar county by the state department of education for special aid tuition for high school students, a recheck on the figures of the applications shows.

Students from school in districts which do not teach the grade they have reached are subject to payment of tuition to the school they attend. A number of districts are not able to pay the tuition so the state reimburses the districts in the amount owed. The high school which the student attends, however, makes the application for the aid.

A maximum tuition of $67.50 is charged for tuition, which takes care of the heating, lighting, instruction and all school expenses. If the student is in the scholastic aid, however, his per capita allowance of $17.50 is deducted from this tuition and only $50 is charged.

Exactly $9,041.23 has been applied for to be distributed to high schools in the county which have made these applications.

CAPONE MAY GET SHORT SENTENCE

Three Explanations Given For Surprising Action Of Gang King

CHICAGO, June 17, (AP).—Al Capone, the little Brooklyn hoodlum who came to Chicago and made bad, is going to prison because he peddled beer and didn't pay his income tax.

The man with the sinister scar on his cheek will be sentenced in the federal court June 30 for income tax law evasion and for some 5,000 violations of the prohibition laws—crimes he admitted in two surprising pleas of guilty Tuesday.

Three explanations were heard Wednesday to account for the doom of the desperate dynasty of Al Capone.

One was that he had suffered financial reverses; that valuable stills and breweries had been destroyed; that the law had become too "hot," and that it was getting too expensive to carry on the warfare against the federal government.

Another explanation was that Capone, feeling the government's case against him was unbeatable, decided upon pleas of guilty in the belief such action would result in mitigation of his sentence.

Serve in Dull Period.

Some officials suggested, however, that Capone, with his prime ahead of him, believed a short incarceration at Leavenworth penitentiary would not be too severe an inconvenience at this time; that he could serve his sentence during a period when business was none too good, and win release at a time business had fully recovered and take his place again as the overlord of liquor traffic in Chicago.

Whether or not the Capone collapse means the disintegration of a crime organization without parallel in Chicago history, police could not say.

A maximum sentence of 34 years imprisonment and fines totaling $90,000 is possible. The general prediction, however, was that Capone's sentence, in view of his plea of guilty, would be approximately five years, and perhaps less.

DALLAS, June 17, (AP)—Lightning, striking a 55,000 barrel crude oil tank late Wednesday during an electrical and rain storm, was estimated to have caused more than $50,000 damage.

PROHI OFFICIALS WILL STAGE WAR ON HIGHER-UPS

July 15 Set As Date For Beginning Of Big Campaign

DIRECTED TO 'GET' LARGE VIOLATORS

350 New Agents to Be Distributed In Leading American Cities

WASHINGTON, June 17, (AP)—Prohibition officials Wednesday disclosed preparations for a campaign against the higher-ups of the illicit liquor gangs that will throw against them — promptly on July 15—the biggest and best trained force of agents since prohibition became a law.

Prohibition Director Woodcock acknowledged that for the last two or three months his office has been "bending every effort" toward this date.

350 New Agents

By mid-July, he said, approximately 350 new agents, chosen from among thousands of applicants for their ability as investigators will be trained and distributed throughout the country. This force is the last of the 500 new agents authorized by congress. The rest are already in the field.

They will be directed specifically Woodcock asserted, to "get" the big commercial violators and the leaders among the illicit liquor gangsters, rather than to concentrate against the speakeasy and small-time bootlegger.

"If we don't make more and better cases with our force increased by nearly a third," he said, "then something is wrong with our force. There is no denying that our effort will be stronger. The results should speak for themselves."

To Begin Quietly

The start of the augumented enforcement effort will begin quietly in impromptu school rooms in a dozen cities spread from coast to coast.

On the morning of July 1, the 350 new agents will be concentrated in cities roughly as follows: 13 in Boston, 62 in New York, 50 in Philadelphia, 28 in Richmond, 28 in New Orleans, 28 in Cincinnati, 55 in Chicago, 28 in St. Paul, 20 in Kansas City, 11 in Denver, 14 in San Francisco, and 14 in Seattle.

Woodcock said if present plans are carried through the actual schooling of the new agents will begin promptly on the first of July.

The 62 men taught in New York will remain entirely in that city and state, bringing the total force of agents there to approximately 340, or nearly a fourth of the entire dry army.

Ask Damages In Auto Collision

Suit for damages in the amount of $5,725 and naming the Texas-Louisia Power and Light Company as defendants Wednesday was filed at the district clerk's office by the attorneys of Miss Eugenia Jordan, 152 South Eighteenth street. Suit grew out of an alleged automobile collision at Sherman and Eighteenth streets between the car driven by Miss Jordan and a car owned by the power company.

Damages requested in the plaintiff's petition are itemized as follows: bodily injuries suffered by Miss Jordan, $5,000; damages to car, $100; physical and mental suffering, $500; doctor's bills, $100; medical bills, $25; and all costs of suit. Petition stated Miss Jordan's side was lacerated and torn in addition to her suffering internal injuries.

LONGVIEW, June 17, (AP)—Pleading guilty to the robbery of a filling station here in April, George Yount, 23, was Wednesday sentenced to 50 years in the penitentiary. His admitted compaion in the robbery, Mayhew Fletcher, drew a seven year term.

Death Sentences of Two Affirmed By Court of Appeals

AUSTIN, June 17, (AP)—Two death sentences were affirmed and bail denied another killer at the weekly sitting of the court of criminals appeals Wednesday.

The court affirmed the case of Chief Red Wing, assessed the extreme penalty in Comal county for the slaying of two year old Evangelina Cavazos, daughter of a Cuban tent show operator at New Braunfels last October 13.

Red Wing, claimed to be an Indian, was employed as a dancer, by the little girl's father, Enrique Cavazos.

Criminal Attack Alleged

The child had been left at a house near the show. Red Wing was alleged to have criminally attacked her before beating her to death. Her body was found several days later hidden back of a signboard. Officers said Red Wing confessed. No testimony was offered in his behalf at the trial.

The court said no bills of exception were presented, the charge was adequate and the evidence sufficient for conviction.

Dewey Hunt, charged with the murder of Samuel Cole in Dallas county, lost his long fight for bail pending his trial a second time. Hunt was assessed the death penalty in his first trial but the appellate court reversed the case December 13, 1929.

Pleads Former Jeopardy

Hunt pleaded former jeopardy in his application for release from the Dallas county jail. He said he was tried for murder both with and without malice. He therefore could be convicted only on that count a second time and the maximum penalty is five years, his attorneys argued. The case is therefore bailable, they said.

The court held the question of former jeopardy could not be raised in bail proceedings. It said the proper time for that question to be decided would be at his next trial.

The court reversed the judgment of the first trial because the death penalty was assessed for murder without malice.

The case of Alfred Jackson, convicted of the murder of Elisa Pinson in Bexar county and assessed the death penalty, was affirmed. The killing occurred on April 3, 1930.

The case of C. B. Jones, sentenced to 35 years for the murder of W. L. Russell in Midland county, January 25, was reformed and affirmed. The reformed sentence was from two to 35 years.

Transfer Suspect.

BEAUMONT, June 17, (AP)—One of the five suspects held in connection with the robbery of the Farmers and Merchants State bank of Winnie, Chambers county, in which more than $2,000 in cash, old coins and valuable papers was taken, was transferred to Anahuac, county seat of Chambers county, but no charges had been filed late Wednesday.

Voluntary Pinching In New Texas Field Is Latest Maneuver

TYLER, June 17, (AP)—Voluntary pinching by operators in the East Texas field as surcease for overproduction after efforts of the railroad commission to enforce proration apparently had failed, had been resorted to Wednesday and the outcome was watched by the oil world, made wobbly by what the industry claimed was the new pool's disregard for orderly marketing.

Should the latest plan work, production in the field was expected to be cut from 200,000 to 220,000 barrels daily at the start. Latest figures available showed average production in the field about 330,000 barrels, more than twice the 160,000 barrels limit fixed by order of the railroad commission.

Saturday Fixed As Date

Saturday at 10 a. m. had been fixed by sponsors of the voluntary effort to reduce production as "cut down hour." All operators were appealed to to limit their wells to 300 barrels at that hour.

Success of the unitization plan endorsed by a mass meeting of operators here Monday will depend on how general the appeal is respected. Should all the operators join in the movement, Capt. J. F. Lucey of Dallas, chairman of the "arbitration committee" set up to administer the unit plan, said he was confident the state, through the railroad commission, would take hold of the project and add its influence through a formal order placing the plan in effect in lieu of the violated proration instructions now extant.

Under the unitl proposal all wells producing prior to June 10, irrespective of acreage involved, would be permitted to yield 300 barrels daily and all wells brought in subsequent to that date would be limited to that amount of oil per unit of 20 acres.

Nine Injured In Auto Accident

ELECTRA, June 17, (AP)—Nine persons were injured near Electra Wednesday, two seriously, when a tire on the automobile in which they were riding blew out and the machine turned two somersaults.

Dorothy Louise Marley, 9, suffered a broken leg and fractured shoulder bone. Wallace Marley, 10, received a broken collarbone and painful cuts. Other members of the party received only minor injuries and were given first aid treatment here.

Members of the party, who were en route from their home in Wichita Falls to visit relatives in Quanah, were: Miss Opal Lee Marley, sister of the children injured and driver of the car; Mrs. Marley, her mother; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stevens, Robert and Edna Tuck and Dick Crocker.

Second Sentence Passed In Cerf Kidnaping Case

LINDY DECIDES ON TENTATIVE FLIGHT ROUTE

Working On Course Leading to Hudson's Bay And Point Barrow

NEW YORK, June 17, (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has tentatively decided on the route for his forthcoming flight to the orient, but this is to be a vacation trip and no definite schedule will be followed.

He said Wednesday he and his wife at present were working on a course leading northward to Hudson's Bay, over to Point Barrow, Alaska, on the Arctic ocean, down Behring Strait to the Aleutian Islands, and along them to Japan and so to China.

Fuel Depots Important

Whether they actually fly this route, however, depends among other things on their ability to arrange for fuel depots along the way. And even if this is fixed up they will not feel bound to follow any definite course, local conditions at the time being their sole guide.

Since Col. Lindbergh is carrying a powerful wireless set, and since both he and Mrs. Lindbergh have become adequately proficient operators, it will be possible to keep in constant touch with ships and land stations. In this way they will know at all times what sort of weather is ahead and can alter their course to take advantage of the most favorable conditions.

The Lindberghs considered four possible routes to the orient, any one of which may still be the one followed, but at present, the Alaskan Aleutian Islands course is the one most favored.

If Lindbergh should finally decide against this route he might cross the Atlantic to Greenland, going thence to Spitzbergen and across Siberia to Japan.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 16, (AP)—John Barrymore thinks he is called eccentric because he likes odd pets. He may be right; he owns Hollywood's largest and varied private collection of bird, fish and animal life.

Dolores Ethel Mae, the infant daughter of John and Dolores Costello, never will lack for pets and her father hopes she will inherit his like for them. The baby is growing up surrounded by cats and dogs, chickens and rare birds, gold fish and rabbits. To this list of ordinary pets Barrymore sometimes adds extraordinary newcomers like Clementine, the Japanese, a tame opossum, or a South American kinkajou, which he has ordered by cable from its native habitat.

Valuable Collection

Maloney, a black vulture from South America, is the star's special pet just now.

Barrymore has tremendous amount of money invested in his collection which include first editions, venetian glass, ivory, firearms, old prints and antique church vestments. None of his books are catalogued. Once he invited a friend up to see his copy of Caxton, the first English printed book, but he couldn't find it.

His home, high up on a mountain side, is so difficult to find that he has prepared a road map which he sends with invitations to guests who never have visited him. He is interested in astrology and sometimes plans his work and even his life in accordance with the readings of the stars.

He owns the only dinosaur egg outside of the museums, a gift from his friend Roy Chapman Andrews. Barrymore says the world's oldest egg is a very appropriate gift for an actor.

It was while in search of a rare bird, the quertzal, that Barrymore contracted jungle fever in Guatamala last November, from which he is not entirely free. When queried on his return for making the nearly fatal trip, he said:

"It sounds foolish, of course, looking for a rare bird, considering the number of them right here in Hollywood."

Corsicana Jury Recommends Seven Year Term For Jimmie Nash

DEFENDANT ENTERS PLEA OF GUILTY

Nash and Two Others Facing Robbery Charge In Dallas

CORSICANA, June 17 (AP)—Jimmie Nash, the second of five men indicted in connection with the kidnaping and ransoming of Robert Cerf, Corsicana banker's son, last December, pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of assault upon a person while masked or in disguise. A jury recommended he be assessed seven years imprisonment and District Judge Hawkins Scarborough passed sentence upon him.

Currie Caldwell several weeks ago was convicted on a similar charge and was given a twelve year sentence.

Three Face Robbery Charges.

Jimmie Nash and Doyle, his brother and Oliver Clapp still are under charges of robbery with firearms at Dallas.

Young Cerf, son of Isaac N. Cerf, president of the State National bank of Corsicana, was abducted from a Corsicana street the night of last December 10 and was taken to Dallas, he was held captive in an apartment house there until $15,000 ransom for his release was paid the kidnapers by N. Suttle Roberts, vice president of the bank and close friend of the youth's father.

Charges against Doyle Nash alleging assault upon a person while masked or in disguise were dismissed here prior to the trial of Caldwell. Charles R. Hassell, another member of the quintet indicted here, was the state's principal witness against Caldwell. Clapp still is a fugitive.

Pleads Guilty.

Norris Lovett, defense attorney, entered a plea of guilty for young Nash Wednesday and the jury was selected from the jury panel for the week without argument by attorneys. Jimmie Nash told the court his plea of guilty was voluntary.

Isaac N. Cerf, the kidnaping victim's father, N. Suttle Roberts and Criminal District Attorney Cleo G. Miller testified briefly concerning the kidnaping case and the investigation which followed young Cerf's abduction.

No testimony was introduced by the defense, which asked only one question, inquiring of Roberts if young Cerf was unarmed when he saw him. Roberts said Cerf was not armed.

Young Nash's wife, his mother and Doyle Nash were in the court room Wednesday.

ASSAULT CHARGE AFTER SHOOTING

John Bryant Of Caviness Named In Wounding Of Lawrence Payne

Charges of assault to murder Wednesday were filed against John Bryant of Caviness in connection with the shooting Tuesday night of Lawrence Payne at a house occupied by two women one and a half miles north of Caviness. Bryant was arrested about 11 o'clock Tuesday night at Payne's bedside at the Lamar county hospital by Sheriff W. A. Walters and Arthur Payne, deputy sheriff.

Shot In Side

Shot through the side with a .38 calibre rifle as he approached the back of the house, Payne immediately was taken to the hospital by neighbors accompanied by Bryant. Bryant, it was said, on approaching the house occupied by the two women and seeing a man behind the house retrieved his rifle and fired. The rifle Tuesday was left at the women's house by Bryant.

The two women of near Caviness Tuesday moved into the house where the shooting occurred. It was said both women were separated from their husbands.

Officers said all witnesses of the shooting gave different versions. Bryant remains in jail.

Payne Wednesday night was reported out of danger and resting well at the hospital.

SIESTA CUSTOM INVADES PARIS AS SUMMER SEASON AT HAND

It's an old Spanish custom, but then—

Paris isn't in Spain, nor is it in France. There is a whole continent and then some between Paris and Spain yet the same customs hold good in both places, with a little variations, of course. In Spain, they tell us, the Spaniards take their daily siesta (a nap or repiod of rest) from one until three in the afternoon. Spain hasn't anything on Paris, for each afternoon Parisians take their siestas.

From 1 until 3 o'clock the streets are practically deserted while the inhabitants take their snooze. The average Paris citizen (this doesn't include the unfortunates who are working and can't take time out) after he has finished his lunch goes into the bed room, sees that the electric fan is turned on him, picks up that interesting detective story, pulls off all clothes possible and lies down upon the bed to enjoy the comfort.

Mr. Average Citizen stays on the bed a few minutes. Then he gets up and goes to the refrigerator for that glass of lemonade he placed there. After a few minutes the book drops from his hands and he is asleep.

After 3 o'clock the people wake up and begin their pilgrimages to town and any other place. Most of the people go to the libraries about that time, the proprietors say, to select books for the next day. More books are being read now because people want to keep out of the sun as much as possible, the librarians have said.

The only difference in the siestas of Spain and Paris is that in Spain everything, including the stores, closes for the two hours so that the people can rest. But in Paris, workers are too busy to stop for a rest and they have to continue working when their luckier brothers can keep cool.

It may be an old Spanish custom but then it's an old Paris custom, too.

Most motion pictures fall naturally into one of several classifications, but "Trader Horn," now playing at the Plaza theater, fits into none of the card catalogue divisions. It is a picture as distinctively in a class by itself as was the story written by Ethelreda Lewis from the graphic recitals of Aloysius Horn, who in the twilight of his life exchanged the daring traffic of the ivory buyer for the prosaic peddling of gridirons and other kitchen hardware to the back doors of Johannesburg, Africa.

A keynote is sounded in the opening scene which shows Horn, still a hunter and trader, making his way up a crocodile infested river while along the further bank a herd of elephants make their leisurely way, utterly unconscious of the grinding camera and its attendant sound recorder.

At the Lamar

DeSylva, Brown and Henderson, creators of the most successful picture of 1929, "Sunny Side Up," have surpassed that great production with "Just Imagine," a new Fox Movietone musical comedy novelty, starting tomorrow for a two-day engagement at the Lamar Theatre, according to glowing preview reports from Hollywood.

"Just Imagine" serves to bring a new star into prominence in the person of Maureen O'Sullivan, the beautiful little blue-eyed Irish colleen with the wistful smile, who scored so sensationally in John McCormack's "Song o' My Heart" and Will Rogers' "So This Is London."

"Just Imagine" is a spectacular departure from the usual in talking pictures. The entire story is projected 50 years into the future, with only one "hold-over" from the modern age in El Brendel, the premier Swedish character comedian.

John Garrick, the leading man, is in love with Maureen, but owing to the peculiarity of the marriage laws of 1980, his rival, Kenneth Thompson, has been successful in winning the girl. However, Garrick has the right of appeal, which he takes.

His friend, Frank Albertson, consoles him the best he can. Frank, however, is too much in love with Marjorie White to understand anyone else's love troubles. Marjorie is Maureen's closest friend.

"Just Imagine" represents a tremendous task in building DeSylva, Brown and Henderson's conception of New York in 1930 as a background for the story and the Martain sequence is said to be the most spectacular ever conceived for any production, screen or stage.

They have also provided a group of great song numbers for this picture; numbers which may prove even more popular than their unforgettable hits in "Sunny Side up."

RECORD CROWD AT REVIVAL SERVICES

Largest Attendance Of Week's Series Marks Wednesday Evening

By far the largest attendance of the week marked the revival at First Congregational church on Wednesday evening. Prayer meeting services were dismissed by First Presbyterian and Immanuel Baptist churches to attend. The pastor, the Rev. Wilbur Scafe, from First Presbyterian with his young people's choir rendered two special numbers.

The church was filled almost to capacity and as a surprise to many, Rev. L. T. Talbot, former pastor of the church, now pastor of the Philpot Tabernacle of Toronto, Canada, was present and gave a short message, after which the evangelist the Rev. Harlin J. Roper spoke on "Believe It Or Not", using as scripture readings, Isaiah 40:25-31, and Romans 11:33-36.

He said: "A great many people tell me that they will not believe that which they cannot understand, unless they understand the principles and laws involved, they will not believe. You would be very foolish to sit and listen to your radio and fail to believe it because you can not understand all about radio. The same thing is true in spiritual things. There are so many mysteries all about us, I can not understand the marvels of God's great universe but whether we believe it or not does not affect it in the least.

"In Romans 3:23 we read, 'All have sinned, come short of the glory of God' and in order to be cleansed from sin and to come up to God's standard for us, we must become holy.

"In Isaiah 53:6 'All we like sheep have gone astray, we have turned every one to his own way, and the Lord hath laid upon Him the iniquity of us all'. What a glorious truth this is to the man who realizes that he is in sin. Christ was our substitute. He was not one to show us the way as some would have us believe, but He is the Way, the Truth, and the Life and there is no other way to come unto God except by Him.

"In Hebrews 7:25 we find 'He is able to save unto the uttermost all that come unto God by Him'. If you can reach Heaven in any other way than by the shed blood of Jesus Christ, then His death on Calvary was unnecessary and you charge God with murder.

"Where are you tonight? Have you trusted God for your salvation? Do not tell me that you are a member of the church. Do not tell me that you are going to straighten up and do better—what about the past? Remember that God only is able to save to the uttermost, all that come unto God by Him."

The subject Thursday morning will be "Why Christians become discouraged." On Thursday evening there will be a special service for the young people and a section of the church will be reserved for them. Every young person in the city is cordially invited.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Mary Hagel
NEW YORK, N. Y.

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. What is the effect of modern Ultra Violet Rays upon tobacco? Dr. E. E. Free, one of America's well-known scientists, who was retained by us to study Lucky Strike's manufacturing process, addressing the Illuminating Engineering Society, said:

"The essential effect of the Ultra Violet is the production of better tobacco and of cigarettes regarded by virtually all smokers who have tested them as milder and with a lesser tendency to cause throat irritation."

Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette that employs Ultra Violet Rays in connection with its exclusive "TOASTING" Process—the only cigarette that brings you the benefits of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process which expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos.

There is no Good Reason

. . . why warm weather should add to the discomforts of housekeeping. Electricity, if given the opportunity, will make the performance of the daily tasks quite as easy and as comfortable as in the winter-time.

Noiseless electric fans will keep the air circulating and create cool breezes.

An electric ventilator in the kitchen will keep that room free from all odors of cooking.

The electric refrigerator will keep you constantly supplied with cubes of clean ice, make frozen desserts, and keep your food in perfect condition.

Labor-saving devices improve your home and save your temper—particularly in the summer-time. Their cost of operation is almost negligible when you consider the service they render.

COLLEGE "VAGABONDS"

COLLEGE courses today are not bound to the old rigid routine. The students have far greater freedom of choice, but some still chafe at left-over restraints. To them the innovation of "vagabondage" will be welcome.

The term came from Harvard and means roving around and listening in on a single lecture of a course. It has the attractiveness of the thing that doesn't have to be done. For some students the vagabond lecture is stimulating.

Vagabonding has the approval of some educators. The student who drifts about in a frankly haphazard manner gets an acquaintance with a goodly number of faculty members and a great variety of subjects which he could not acquire by keeping to his prescribed studies.

But modern education offers a still further advance in "vagabonding." The cruising college, established a few years ago, is still traveling. It offers the exceptional advantages of study and travel in the same dose. While intensive study may be impossible at this perambulating and migrating institution of higher learning, its graduates doubtlessly return home greatly broadened.

Judging from steamship bookings for the summer several hundred thousand students and teachers prefer their travel as a sort of dessert to their academic banquet.

LEGISLATIVE WASTE OF TIME

IN a legislative body which handles over 25 thousand bills and resolutions in two years, as did the late congress, expeditious transaction of business is impossible. But much of the time that is absolutely wasted in useless procedure prescribed by precedent could be saved; and suc ha move is aimed at by Representative Luce of Massachusetts, chairman of the house committee on library, who announces that effort to liberalize the rules in the interest of efficiency will be launched at the next session.

Congresman Luce, an authority on the science of legislation, points, among other things, to the futility of the requirement for the reading of bills, which dates back to ancient parliamentary practice n times when many times legislators could not read or write. With printed copies of all measures at command, the droning of the reading clerk of the house wastes 12 days of the time of that body. He might also have instanced the time spent on roll calls, most of which could be saved by the installation of electrical recording devices.

If the hours and days devoted to time-wasting practices were dedicated to actual legislative business, the country might get an even larger number of undesirable laws, but on the other hand, congress might be able to make a better effort at keeping up with current needs.

THE ROAD TO AUTOMOBILE SAFETY

IT is to be hoped that more states during 1931 will go in for "Save-a-Life" motor vehicle inspection campaign such as those conducted in ten states in 1930.

This movement is sometimes more than an appeal to automobile owners to see that their machines are in good condition. Usually the campaign is backed up by a law making inspection of brakes, headlights, steering mechanism and horns obligatory. During 1930 in ten states, 3,500,000 cars were examined—and over a million had defective brakes, 2,000,000 had unsafe headlights and 219,000 had defective steering.

The ill-conditioned car causes accidents. The newspapers are filled with stories of cars which suddenly swerve from their courses to collide with other cars or trees or leave the road; of drivers being blinded by glaring lights and running into disaster, and so on. There is no room on our highways for cars which are not mechanically safe, or for reckless and irresponsible drivers.

Last year the "Save-a-Life" campaign produced splendid results in the ten states where they were conducted. Making the movement nationwide would be a fine way of beginning a real fight against highway accidents.

WHAT SMALL BOYS USED TO DO DREAMING AND GROUCHING AND LOAFING AND FILLING UP DAYS

Marshall Maslin

I'M NOT sure that I know how small boys spend their time now, but I remember very clearly how they used to put in their days. They spent them:

Wondering what to do next.

Dreaming.

Wearing out their shoes—or getting "stone bruises."

Catching catfish, with worms, with a bobbing cork.

Catching carp with their hands in pools, when the river was low.

Bragging about their dogs.

Walking on stilts.

Sliding in puddles after a rain.

Trading marbles.

Raising pigeons and rabbits and forgetting to feed them.

Drying cornsilk for smoking.

Cooking potatoes in a fire in the backyard.

Making willow whistles in the spring of the year, gathering wild blackberries in the fall.

Getting a couple of ribs at the butcher shop, to make a clatter with.

Staring at the circus posters for weeks, getting up early to see the circus train unload, wondering if the bearded lady was really a woman, talking about the circus afterwards.

Playing about any new building that was going up.

Going to fires and—as Samuel Butler said—sympathizing with the fire.

Kicking an old can down the street.

Stepping on cherry pits.

Making root-beer.

Counting white horses.

Using their fathers' saws and hammers and chisels and planes and forgetting to put them back where they got them.

Wishing it would rain; wishing it would quit raining; wishing vacation would come; counting the days until Christmas.

Forgetting to fill the wood box; explaining how they happened to break that window.

Choosing up at baseball.

Being "good" when they know they've been bad.

Getting acquainted with a "new kid."

Wondering about God.

Fighting.

Wishing they had a pair of two-wheeled skates.

Sitting on the curb and talking about their elders.

Complaining because there's nothing to do in this old town."

REDUCTION ADVOCATED IN PRESENT PERSONNEL OF FEDERAL AGENCIES

By William H. King
Senator From Utah

A DEFICIT of $1,000,000,000 should shock the American people and arouse them to the imperative necessity of reducing federal expenses.

There are too many federal departments, agencies, bureaus and commissions, and there are at least 200,000 more federal employes than are required in the efficient administration of the federal government. Commissions and bureaus should be abolished and material reduction in the number of personnel employed by the government should be effectuated. Federal expenditures should be reduced for the coming year more than $800,000,000.

The heavy burden of taxation now imposed on the people, both by federal and state governments, is an obstacle to a return of national prosperity. It is a foolish philosophy that encourages enormous expenditures for the purpose of reviving business. The gross earnings of all the people of the United States for this fiscal year will not exceed $75,000,000,000 and the expenditures by the federal and state governments and the political subdivisions of the states will approximate $12,000,000,000.

There has been much boasting during the past eight years of the economies practiced by the federal government and the executive departments of the federal government have claimed that they have inaugurated policies that would save the government hundred of millions of dollars annually. The reverse is the fact.

The budget recommendations have been much larger than what congress was willing to appropriate, though congress has been extravagant in its appropriations.

It would be most unfortunate if taxes have to be increased in this country. It is obvious, however, that we can not permit annual deficits and that we must, therefore, increase taxes or reduce expenditures by hundreds of millions of dollars. Indeed, it looks as though an increase in revenue will be required to meet the budget demands submitted by the president.

If taxes are increased, they must, in my opinion, come from an increase in estate taxes, from taxes upon gifts and from incomes in the higher brackets. I would say with respect to increases in the higher income brackets that the increase should begin on incomes about $50,000 but that the increases should be particularly directed to incomes that run over $1,000,000.

WHY THE MOON PASSES THROUGH ITS PHASES

IF the moon always remained directly between sun and earth—a position known as syzygy, we would never see the moon at all, for its illuminated half would be the one nearest the sun, while the half nearest the earth—moon's face—would be dark or night. However, after the moon has passed the sun in its eastward orbit, its dark face, because of the slow rotation of the satellite, gradually turns into the sun's light—sunrise on the moon—until half way around its monthly orbit or 180 degrees we behold it, full moon. From full moon back to the sun the moon's face turns slowly away from the sun into darkness.

McKINNEY COURIER-GAZETTE

Under the proposed state-wide bond measure, Collin county would be relieved of a very considerable sum of her road tax money. We believe as the Paris News, that without a state-wide bond issue, there will always be disconnected highways throughout the state. Without this bond issue, road building will be hampered in Texas and the tax will not be as evenly distributed as it would be under the proposed new plan of placing the burden on the traffic and taking it off the backs of the farmers and other property holders. We are firmly of the opinion that the people of Texas will favor this plan if they are ever allowed by the legislature to express themselves on it.

Along Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK. — A Tammany Town play reviewer was talking to Flo Ziegfeld one night, praising his new show.

"It must have cost you at least a hundred thousand," said the reviewer.

"A hundred thousand dollars," snorted the Glorifier. "What d'you think I'm running, a penny arcade? Why the last scene alone cost cost me twenty-seven thousand dollars."

Stepping-Stone

Once the most popular dining rooms in town were famous for such American dishes as well-known beans, huckleberry pie and cornmeal and buckwheat cakes. Try to get them today.

The mode of service in elite eating places has changed greatly, too, and no veteran cuisineer will grant that the change has been for the better. Twenty years ago waiters were English or French or Swiss, dignified and polite, slow but excellent servants. They remained from twenty to forty years in one place.

Today, these have been supplanted by German, French, Italian, Greek and Czecho-Slovaks who are young fellows in their twenties. They don't know their customers and don't particularly care whether you like your steak well done or care for mushrooms in the gravy.

Their ambition is to get experience quickly so they may open a place of their own. Many of these young waiters work at noon in some Wall Street cafe which serves only luncheon. Then they hasten to a Park Avenue dining room at 10 p. m. are off to a night club in the upper forties to do another five hour stretch.

Scores of speakeasies in New York are owned by just such hustling Continentals.

Youth Will Be Served

Another reason why young waiters are in the ascendancy in New York is found in the change in arrangements of restaurants.

In the Gay Nineties, kitchens were spacious affairs on the same floor as the dining tables. Today space is so much more valuable that when tables are on the ground floor the kitchens are in the basement.

Waiters must be strong enough to climb stairs a hundred times in an evening and swift enough so the food they are toting will not cool in transit.

Old timers are forced to drop out and make way for lads who only yesterday were bus boys.

The Bar Sinister

One certain insignia of success among the magnates, sports, politicians and gangsters of the east side, is the silk-embroidered label of a certain tailor shop in the heart of the old ghetto.

Few gangsters worthy of a front page headline, have gone for their last ride without that mark of distinction on the inside pockets of their coats.

This silken label which has come to be the Who's Who, the Dun and Bradstreet AAA rating and the Social Register of the east side is found only in suits and overcoats costing from $100 to $200.

Twenty-five years ago, two brothers, well versed in the social psychology of the East Side bigshots, opened a clothing store in the heart of the second-hand district. As it was obviously futile to compete with the cut-rate prices of that mean, poverty-marked neighborhood, the brothers introduced diamond-high prices, eliminated price tags and specialized in the most of de luxe fabrics for their custom-made suits.

This exclusive shop soon established precedence in the hearts of neighborhood moneyed song-writers, pugs, politicians, policemen, gamblers and gangsters of the East Side district; and in time became an indispensable hall mark of distinction.

Victim of Modernity

The old "dip" was talking.

"Th' rackets shot. You hook a couple pokes. What's in 'em? Nothin' but blank checks, a lipstick, a pack o' 'fags' an' some carfare. There Y'are. Checka! Nobody carries no more big dough.

"Watches are strapped around wrists, like handbags.

"Stickpins ain't wore no more.

"They used to be conventions. Th' town was full o' them. Now? Th' only place they's a crowd at these conventions is up in somebody's hotel room, where somebody's openin' a bottle.

"What chance would a marked gent an' perfect stranger like m'self, stand, walking into somebody's hotel room an' hornin' in on a party?"

Backward Glances

By A. W. Neville

Before we had the Eighteenth amendment there was scarcely a session of the legislature of Texas when the whisky business was not "cussed and discussed." There were regulatory bills introduced and fought over, the question of statewide prohibition came up at intervals, the license fees were argued and nearly every session found it necessary to tighten up because the whisky people usually found ways of evading the laws or of disregarding them without what was considered adequate punishment.

This state of affairs often led to propositions that were so unique that the only purpose they served was to raise a laugh. I recall one in particular.

When I came to Paris Aleck Latimer was a lawyer here, a stepson of Claiborne Chisum, and an ardent prohibitionist. He moved some years afterward. I think to Lampasas, and was elected to the legislature from that bailiwick. I think it must have been when the statewide prohibition fight of 1887 was on, or at least it was very near that time, and Mr. Latimer, in his zeal, made a speech denouncing the liquor traffic and concluded by introducing a bill requiring every saloon to have hung on the wall behind the bar "a picture of Death on a pale horse" to warn the topers of what was coming. Just how he expected to picture the pair which are spoken of in Revelation by St. John he did not specify, but the bill never got out of the committee and the saloon walls continued to have only such specimens of art as the owners' taste approved. Mr. Latimer's intention was good but the idea was too far advanced for the average legislator.

It was the same way with a proposition made by Alderman J. M. Shelton in the Paris city council thirty-odd years ago. The city was, as usual then, in financial straits and Alderman Shelton introduced an ordinance to provide for but one meeting a month, and anyone reading the minutes of those days would likely agree that one would have been sufficient to transact all the really needed business, but the aldermen are paid so much for each meeting and Mr. Shelton's bill was promptly knocked on the head. He, too, was too far ahead of his time, and while he was one of the most conscientious aldermen the city ever had, few of his proposed measures got by because the others could not see as far ahead as he did.

Diet and Health

It is comforting for the headache victim to know that very few cases of chronic headache are serious, in the sense that they indicate deep-seated bodily disease. Most of them are nervous or reflex or constitutional (in the form of migraine.)

In the study of a large series of chronic headaches only a little over 2 per cent were due to such organic diseases as high blood pressure, kidney disease, or brain tumor. That is only about two people out of a hundred who have chronic headache have their health seriously affected.

Escape headaches are very frequent. It is not easy to explain their mechanism, and the patient always resents and denies the diagnosis. Put baldly, some people find that they can get out of many disagreeable things in life by having a headache. The habit may come on quite early in life. Johnny cannot do his algebra lesson because he has such a headache. He is taken to an oculist and fitted with glasses, and even so, he still has a headache when the algebra lesson looms. The prospect of the movies does not make his headache worse, and he can read something else but the algebra book, but algebra and headache go together. If Johnny's parents are unwise and over indulgent they will get him let off his algebra. Then the headaches will disappear. But the memory of their success remains in Johnny's mind. And before long he will have a headache whenever he has to do something he doesn't want to do, and the habit of having a headache will become lifelong.

That is the way in which s of these headaches which ap so mysterious in after life l and grow.

Another similar kind of h ache is the revenge headache. husband won't buy her a dress, so she has a good ro headache to make him sorry. doesn't say that is the reason has it, she would resent it i nantly, if accused, she prob doesn't even know that is wh has it, but if her life is unrav it is there just the same. day when she was a little her parents wouldn't let her a party, so she had such a h ache from the disappoint that they let her go. She consciously found her heada got her what she wanted, so kept on having them.

The importance headache is another brand. Sh! Don't ma noise, sister is having one of headaches. She is lying down stairs in a dark room with a over her forehead and every must be still as a mouse. S has never married, and she work, and this is the only she can make everybody k how important she is and a commotion and get everybo attention and respect.

Guiding Your Child

INNOCENCE.

By Mrs. Agnes Lane.

Parents cherish the illusion that their children are quite "innocent." By "innocent" they mean that they are free of any interest in or knowledge of sex.

This apparent state of innocence is something in which parents take great pride. They are happy in the feeling that although they themselves are stained and scarred by life, their children are still as fresh and pure as the day they were born. They try to keep them so as long as possible.

As a matter of fact nothing could be more unwarranted than this assumption of innocence in children. The mass of scientific data accumulated in late years bears out the conclusion that all children, unless they are defective, are naturally interested in and curious about sex.

Parents who serenely state that their child had no interest in the subject, that "he has never asked a question" are only telling the intelligent listener that they have made their child feel so guilty about his sexual curiosity that his lips are sealed in the presence of his elders. Such parents can never know what goes on in their child's mind.

Why are parents so eager to assume that their children are innocent? It is because they themselves feel guilty about sex. Although they have become parents they have not lost the unhappy feelings of sin and shame instilled in them in their own early years. It is a vicious circle in which the sins of the fathers are indeed visited on the children even unto the third and fourth generation. The heritage of guilt is handed down from parent to child. It makes little difference whether this is done by gross prohibition or by the subtlest evasions. The sensitive child is injured by either. No amount of subsequent teaching about the "beauty" and "sacredness" of love can wipe out an original strong impression in the mind of a child.

If innocence is freedom from guilt then only those children can remain truly innocent whose parents help them to face the fact of sex in a simple and natural way.

Washington Daily Letter

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — "The Wickersham commission," commented Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama, "can't understand it—the country's growing disrespect for law.

"How long it takes!—even when law triumphs in the end.

"Consider the case of Al Capone, contemptuous of all legal machinery for years."

"A passion for power," continued the congressman, philosophizing, "evidently has been the mainspring of Al Capone's career. Power. And money, of course. The two go together.

"In his quest for power Al clashed with an already-established authority which resented the growth of Al's.

"He was too strong or too shrewd for it or both, as it manifested itself locally. When it tried to cope with him under its state laws—to oppose him as a racketeer—it failed.

"This made him the object of its higher representatives' attention. They began to recognize in him the personification of a really dangerous rivalry to the power which they personify—a rivalry which, for their own safety, they felt they must crush."

"The weapon of state legislation having proved ineffective against Al, the higher authority which he has offended resorted to the more serviceable weapon of a federal enactment—a weapon under the higher authority's direct control not one which must be used inconveniently through less capable intermediate hands.

"Quite possible as it may be that Al is, in fact, an income tax dodger it is obvious enough that it is higher authority's purpose to 'get' him for 'something.'

"One need feel no sympathy for Al, he has lived by the sword and can hardly complain if he perishes by the sort of cutlery or another.

"Nevertheless, higher authority was slow in taking up the income tax weapon against him—slow enough to justify a surmise that higher authority did not resort to it until aroused to a realization of the formidable nature of his challenge to itself, to justify a surmise that the weapons of state law and Vol-steadism having failed to reach higher authority is determined 'get' him anyway."

"It seems to me that such a situation partly explains the breakdown in the country's respect for law, which our Wickershams so much deplore.

"Though the average person certainly does not deliberately think the matter out, I believe he is unconsciously aware that enforcement authority, as I see it, simply is prepared to resist attacks on its privileged position by any means, for similar power, lawlessly using the law to use against him its weapon, to suit its requirements.

"What concern is it of the average person which side wins?

"The ruling class, which makes all laws," said the Alabama representative, "makes them for others to obey, not to be obeyed itself.

"It makes them to protect class group interests.

"No one needs a law to compel him to do what he wishes to do. He needs it to compel someone who may not wish to do it, to do the same thing.

"There is no relationship between law and justice or ethics or science. Justice? A trial at law is a test of skill between counsel. Ethics? A lie is not unlawful unless it affects some property right. We have the supreme court's word for it that, when called to account we must do as the law decrees, whatever our consciences may dictate.

"Time was when the king's word was sacrosanct. To raise a hand against it was death.

"Today our Wickershams pay lip service to the sanctity of the constitution and if they had their way it would be death to look askance at it. But they fear for its safety, warning the country of its growing disrespect for law. They are sensing that their system is crumbling, that they have any affection for the system, as a system. Their affection is for the advantages which they enjoy under it.

"It is not Communism, however, that they need to fear—as they will again. Communism was born dead soon. The world is still too cold for it. It inevitably will freeze in the frost."

DENISON — G. M. Upshaw, former traffic officer here, will leave from New York June 24, for Jersey, England, where he will be one of ten men representing the U. S. in the international small bore shoot to be held there.

THE BAT BAG By Harry Cox

Babe Peebles, who for a number of years managed the Denison Railroaders, when that crew was a member of the Texas-Oklahoma league and of the old Western association, is now in the bottling business down in the Rio Grande Valley, with McAllen as his headquarters. The Babe has associated with him Clarence (Tex) Covington, another ex-member of the Railroaders, and at one time a big league ball player. Clarence is managing a ball club down in the land of grape fruit, cabbages, Mexicans and mescal.

Babe had a colorful ball club at Denison, and one that was a great rival of the Paris club. On the Railroader roster was Rogers Hornsby, now nationally known as a ball player and manager, Bill Harper, a tricky infielder, Jew Hellman, Boston Campbell, Fred Nicholson, another ex-big leaguer, Walter Kinney, also a member of the "ex" brigade, Dugan Brooks, Hetty Green, Ray Querry, Tex Merritt, Bob and Clarence Covington, and others whom memory does not recall. Babe filled in as a pinch hitter, left handed pitcher and did other chores for the Railroaders besides managing the club.

Old time fans will recall the famous excursion that was run from this city to Denison on a Sunday, which carried about 600 Paris rooters, a game in which Dickie Kerr, ably assisted by Dutch Weber, turned back the Railroaders to earn a small fortune for the backers of the local club. That train was loaded to the guards when it left Paris and passengers were picked up at every stop along the route. Some of the passengers were also loaded—with enthusiasm and other things. Badges adorned the manly chests of the Paris exhibitionists, taunting the Railroaders and Denison rooters.

Dickie Kerr received a check for $150 for copping that game, while little Dutch Weber, who fielded like a Collins that day and drove in all of the Paris runs got nothing but a few words of praise. One Paris man carried a grip full of money to Grayson county bailiwick and standing on the corner by the old Palace hotel, sent forth the word to bring on the coin and he would cover it. "Make up all the money you can find in town, bring it to me and I'll carry it back to Paris," this man taunted Denison backers and he made good on both promises.

In the ninth inning of that game with Paris one run to the good, runners on first and second, due to errors, and no out, Kerr whiffed a pair of pinch hitters which included Peebles, and then Dutch Weber went back to right field foul line to pull down a hit from the bat of Jew Hellman, and the game was over. Boy, that was some ball game and full of fireworks from start to finish. Winding up that series the Paris club finished a swing around the circuit and Kerr came back to Denison and pitched a no-hit ball game, striking out 16.

Later in the season another excursion was run to Texarkana, with the same big crowd and the same conditions prevailing aboard the train, but the ending the in twin cities was different. Joe Pate bested Wee Dickie that day by a score of 1 to 0 in game that went 13 innings, and the local club lost the decision on an error after two men were out in the thirteenth. With that one exception it was a perfect ball game, with both clubs pulling sensational plays. Kerr whiffed fifteen in that game and Pate ten. That was a pitcher's battle that will always be remembered and talked about.

And speaking of the Covington boys, they were almost as numerous as the Leslies, Fenners and other members of the same family that were famous around Bailey in the old days. The Leslies could and did put a ball club on the field that were all kin — brothers and cousins. And they were hard to beat. Two of the Leslies got to the big league, Fenner, now a practicing attorney at Bonham and Roy a younger brother, who was with the Chicago Cubs. Fenner was sold by Indianapolis to Chicago, but retired from the game and went into the law business, where he made a success. Roy played in the majors and big minors for several years and during the last year of the Lone Star league managed Mexia.

There were five of the Covington boys who made the professional grade. Tex, the oldest, was a big league pitcher for Detroit and other major league clubs. Clarence, who went to Chicago as a first baseman. Bob, who played with Denison and was an all around player, pitching, playing infield or outfield and one of the smartest men in the game. Bill, who also played with Denison, then took up umpiring and is now on the police force at Denison, and Charlie, who played with various class D clubs. Bill now has a son who is playing in the Rio Grande Valley league and was on the payroll of the Paris club for several months.

The Covington boys originated around Commerce while the Leslie and their kin were from the town of Bailey, up in Fannin county. Charlie Leslie, another member of this family, was a great ball player, but died while wearing a uniform of the United States army during the Spanish American war.

ONCE OVER

The great American inclination is to look things over. Nothing is either good or bad to the open-minded, until it has received that quick, interested appraisal which we have deftly named the "once over."

We are continually looking over new political leaders and ideas, new acquaintances, new faces, new actors and writers. And by the same token we are constantly called upon to pass judgment on a great variety of merchandise—from soap to sedans—which is presented to us through the advertisements in the daily newspapers.

People who follow the advertisements know that through them they can find out more about articles, values and the wise spending of their money than they could discover in any other way. New products, new improvements in merchandise, new uses for established articles, are constantly being brought before them.

Advertising makes it possible for you to get exactly what you want, to get full value for every penny, and to be sure of receiving the greatest possible satisfaction from everything you buy.

Read the advertisements regularly, and get the important news they bring you every day!

Chapter 38.

Frazier called at the office for Mary that evening. When they went out together, Foster looked at her queerly, she thought. What a world! Only a few weeks ago she had gone to dinner with Frazier, at her employer's insistence, now she was almost voluntarily accepting his attentions, and Foster resented it. But how everything had changed with the passing of a few weeks! It was almost unbelievable.

The "smaller car" that Frazier had purchased for driving her about gave Mary a thrill of pride. It gleamed like a jewel and seemed as big and powerful as a locomotive, but accommodated just two passengers. It seemed almost incredible to her to be flashing along the highway in the serene winter dusk, in a car that had cost more than she could earn in five years.

A light snow had draped the world in shining white gossamer, orange spots of light pricked out and winked through the trees in the distance, or from farmhouses along the broad, sweeping highway. Mary relaxed and watched the flashing panorama in silence, grateful for Martin's response to her desire for a quiet hour after the busy day at the office. That Martin Frazier could be so understanding and considerate, was almost as strange to her as her presence there beside him in the foreign-built motor car with its handsome fittings and upholstery.

The black of clustered pine trees made sudden blots against the white-shrouded hills, the road rolled along, bounced up and down and darted around curves. Mary's thoughts behaved in a similar manner.

Martin puzzled her. She did not want to be too credulous about what he had said when they were last together. She rather suspected that he had planned the whole scheme to his own advantage, and it was accomplishing for him just what he had anticipated. He had thrown her off her guard and had replaced her fear and distrust with pity and faith. It had not quite reached that point for her, but Mary knew that the inclination was in that direction.

She had exclaimed over the magnificence of the new car when she first saw it. "But, Martin, what extravagance to buy a car like that just for driving with me!"

"You can't expect me to believe that," with a deprecating laugh.

"It is true, nevertheless," he declared. "I am glad that you like it, dear. I hope you will let me buy one for you, soon—for your very own. Shouldn't you like to have a car of your own, chere?"

"Can you ask that seriously? Of course, I should, if I could afford one. Where are we going?"

"Oh, way up on the Hendrik Hudson for a duck dinner and a nice quiet evening. Doesn't that sound restful? You're tired, dear, I can see that."

She thought, "Yes, more than tired. Weary—with thinking and longing for what I never can have."

Finally, when they had left the city, crossed the river and were following the Palisades, he asked, "Don't you like driving with me, Mary?"

"Oh, yes," she admitted. "Why shouldn't I?"

"Then you do like me a little. You couldn't enjoy driving with someone you disliked. That makes me happy." He was so optimistic that his mood affected Mary, somewhat. "How would you like some music?" He reached over and turned a radio dial on the dashboard, and orchestra music from New York instantly floated from the little loud speaker overhead. The almost inaudible drone of the motor and the rushing of air through which the speeding car cut its way in a direct swath, seemed to be but a more intense part of the music's accompaniment. There was something hypnotically magic about it all.

The charming old Colonial Inn at which they stopped, finally, was redolent with history. Every piece of antique furniture revealed a story of its own. An army of red coats, or George Washington and his own weary soldiers might be stopping at any moment to refresh themselves in that very room at one of the Colonial tables, Mary thought, looking about the spacious beamed room with her domestic-appreciative eyes. Fowls were roasting on a turning spit over the great log fire in an old stone fireplace, hung with rows of pots and pans. The flames leaped and subsided and played hide-and-seek with their reflections in the pewter and old silver ranged on the dresser opposite.

The table service was of pewter. The food was served by a pleasant-faced woman who patted hurriedly about among her few guests. There were one party of four and two other couples there when Mary and Martin arrived. Mary surmised that the cover charge was such that even a few guests each night paid the busy little woman well.

A good radio relayed to them the music which they had just left behind them in New York. They danced while they awaited dinner.

"You should have cultivated dancing as a career," Martin told her.

"Oh, I love to dance. That is not work. And I shouldn't fancy being on the stage at all."

"No, that is decidedly not your world. You are a puzzle to me, Mary. You are really a domestic woman. The home you manage would be one of those delightful havens about which every man dreams, and few men happen to possess."

"Oh, you are so extravagant, Martin. Of course, I love a home, and what could be more pleasure than making and managing a home?"

"You make everything a pleasure, don't you? You consider your remarkable ability as a casual thing. But think—you are a shrewd financier, a capable business woman, an artist by nature, and you could be a dancer if you chose. You were blessed by all the gods, my dear."

Mary had never in her life considered herself a fortunate or favored person. Bonnie had been considered the child of the gods, always. Beauty had been her scepter of power in the family. "You are prejudiced in my favor, for some reason, and you exaggerate my virtues for your own benefit," with amusement.

"I am prejudiced in you for more than some reason—many of them," he declared. "Everybody likes you, Mary. Did you never wonder why?"

"Oh, really—" she flushed.

"Well now, think it over. Can you think of a person you have ever known who dislikes you so very much? Isn't just about everyone your friend?"

"Oh, yes—of course—that. But so do I like everyone," casually.

"And that, my dear, is the answer. You like people and do the things for them and listen to their troubles and help them—and forget yourself. Is it any wonder that people like you?"

"Let's dance again," Mary suggested. "I suspect that dinner will be ready very soon."

Later, when everyone else in the room was smoking, except Mary, Martin asked, "Don't you smoke at all?"

"No," she replied easily. "Can you give me one reason why I should?"

"Not one. But I can give you many reasons why you shouldn't. Don't try it."

"I don't intend to. I have no prudish objections to it, you know. If I could discover any advantage in the practice, I should try it, by all means. About the only disadvantage to abstinence is that I am often more conspicuous, as I am tonight."

"And don't you be disillusioned by that, Mary. Every man in this room admires you for it. They notice it, of course. And if the actual facts were known, the girls admire you, too, and envy you your freedom from the habit—but they never would admit it, of course."

Mary shrugged. "Well, what they think does not bother me in the least. There are so many more important things in life to demand my time and thoughts. To be busy is the greatest blessing in the world, isn't it?"

"I believe you are right. Perhaps that is why I have missed happiness. I have been busy enough in my own way—but there have been no demands upon my time or strength or mind."

"I am sorry for you, Martin."

"Then take pity upon me and show me how to live to find happiness."

"Oh, the best part of happiness is finding it for yourself," she said wisely. "Happiness can't be served up to you in perfect portions, like this dinner. You have to get out and earn it and prepare it, to taste the full flavor of it."

"You are so discouraging," he opined.

Mary smiled at his seriousness. Martin Frazier searching for happiness, with his fortune in his hand! He was as apathetic as Diogenes looking for an honest man, with a lantern.

Tented City Rises on Divorce Oasis

"Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Grounds" would be an appropriate song for the great influx of divorce seeking men and women to hum as they putter around their tents erected on the outskirts of Reno, Nev., as an answer to the hotels which are unable to accommodate them in the famous divorce oasis. Hundreds are now sleeping in these tents while impatiently waiting six weeks for their final decrees to be ground out by the well-oiled Reno divorce mill. Even the councilmen of the "Capital" had to get together and pass a new ordinance permitting the Tented City to exist contrary to an older law barring such canvas colonies. Leona Sherman (at right), driving a stake for her tent, is but one of many waiting for their final papers before departing the oasis in the desert of married life.

Deaths and In Memoriam 3

In 1881 when Archie Park was admitted to the practice of law, I was justice of the peace in precinct No. 2 in Lamar county. Archie commenced his law practice in my regular monthly terms of court, and some of his first cases were in my court.

He and a number of Paris lawyers came out regularly once every month, making the trip on horseback. I recall the names Jim Long, Horace Bradley, who was also just commencing the practice of law, Jake Hodges was the county attorney.

That was 50 years ago, and I have known Arch ever since, and Paris never had in all these years a better citizen, a more dependable, conscientious lawyer. I have heard numbers of men who have gone to him for advice say that he advised them to try and compromise their troubles and have no law suit when he could have gotten a fee by taking the case. Not many lawyers would do this when it meant the loss of a fee. J. A. DRUMMOND.

Legal Notice

The State of Texas—To the sheriff or any constable of Lamar county—Greetings: You are hereby commanded to summon Frank Gale by making publication once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in your county to appear at the next regular term of the 62nd District Court of Lamar county, to be holden at the court house thereof, in Paris, Texas, on the first Monday in August, A. D. 1931, the same being third day of August, A. D. 1931, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 20th day of November, A. D. 1930, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 13948, wherein a plaintiff, and Mrs. Leona Gale Trow, J. Trow, Bud Gale, William Gale, Mrs. Ava Patterson, Aubrey Patterson, Mrs. Bertha Everett, Lois Everett, Mrs. Era Cartright, Emory C. Cartwright and Beulah Gale, defendants, and said petition alleging substantially as follows, to-wit: Heretofore and on or about July 11, 1925, defendant, Mrs. Leona Gale Trow, for value received made, executed and delivered to her then name of Leona Gale, she being at that time a single woman, to the Scottish American Mortgage Company, Limited, her principal note in the sum of $300.00 due October 1, 1931, and her seven interest notes called for in her principal note, each for the sum of $12.00 payable respectively the 1st day of October, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, said notes being payable in Paris, Texas, with 10 per cent interest after maturity and 10 per cent attorney's fees if collected by law. The said defendant has failed and refused, and still fails and refuses to pay the principal note of $300.00 which was due and payable the first day of October, 1931, and also the said interest notes for $72.00 due the first day of October, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1930, respectively, and plaintiff has placed the said notes with its attorneys for collection and for suit and the 10 per cent attorney's fees called for therein.

The Scottish American Mortgage Company, Limited,

To better secure the payment of the notes sued on defendant, Mrs. Leona Gale Trow, in the name of Mrs. W. A. Gale, made, executed and delivered to The Scottish American Mortgage Company, Limited, her real estate mortgage upon the following described property situated in Lamar county, Texas, to-wit: A part of the J. E. Miro survey 19 miles S. W. from Clarksville and being a portion of the first tract conveyed to J. L. Thomas by J. M. Smiley by deed dated Dec. 30, 1901, and being all of a 45 acre tract conveyed by J. E. Thomas to J. M. Smiley by deed and all of a 43.45 acre tract off of the east end of a 61.45 acre tract conveyed by J. C. Smiley, being the same land conveyed to Mrs. W. A. Gale by F. Williams and wife, March 22, 1919.

Mrs. Leona Gale Trow, the grantee in the above named real estate mortgage, failed and refused to pay taxes on the mortgaged property as she was bound and obligated to do and plaintiff in order to protect its lien as against such unpaid taxes was compelled to and did on December 18, 1929, pay a total of back taxes in sum of $199.15, which is a lien and charge against the property secured by the above mortgage and subject to foreclosure in this suit against the same.

Wherefore, plaintiff sues, prays that upon its final hearing hereof, which is the legal and equitable owner and holder of the notes sued on, have its personal judgment against defendant Mrs. Leona Gale Trow, for its said notes in the sum of $1260.00, together with interest and attorney's fees as called for therein, that plaintiff also have judgment against said defendant in the sum of $199.15 for taxes paid by it together with 10 per cent interest thereon from January 28, 1930, that plaintiff likewise have its judgment against each and all of the defendants for the foreclosure of its foreclosure in the amount of its judgment of its said vendor's lien, mortgage lien and tax lien on the property and land hereinabove described as a first and superior lien thereon, and for sale of said land under such foreclosure, Cerdificating of sale, Confirmation and for writ of possession for goods and all other and further relief to which plaintiff may be entitled.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in city of Paris, Texas, this the 5th day of June, A. D. 1931. Ada DeWitt, clerk, District Court, Lamar county, Texas. By Gladys Logue, deputy.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, June 17, (AP)—A slight further advance in cotton Wednesday was followed by reactions. The final tone of the market was barely steady at net declines of 5 to 9 points. Closing quotations were near lows.

There was further trade buying during the early trading. It was in less volume than earlier in the week, however, and some selling was reported for New Orleans and southern account. The partial rallies during the early afternoon was accompanied by reports of a continued fair spot demand for this season of the year in the south. July liquidation continued. It was absorbed by spot houses buying against sales of later deliveries at about the recent differences.

Liverpool cables reported local and foreign buying in that market and said there was a moderate cloth demand for the British home trade in Manchester but that the Indian boycott continued.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, June 17, (AP)—The cotton market here Wednesday moved in rather erratic fashion in fairly active trading. The close was steady the general market showing net decline for the day of 4 to 10 points. The late month May showed the greatest drop.

Liverpool cables came in 1 to 2 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that there was local and foreign buying. Manchester cabled that there was a moderate cloth business for the home trade but India business was small.

July closed at 8.74, October at 9.12 and December at 9.56 or 6 to 7 points net lower for the day on those active positions.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, June 17, (AP)—Indications that Canada's wheat yield this season would be the scantiest ever known turned wheat prices upward Wednesday, but American harvest reports acted as an offset. Extremely high temperatures, 100 and above, were noted both in Canadian and American spring wheat territory, with drouth unabated. However, cutting of winter wheat was announced as having begun in this country's chief producing state. Kansas, with yields outdoing expectation.

Wheat closed irregular, 1-2 cent lower to 1-2 higher, corn unchanged to 1-2 advance, oats unchanged, and provisions showing 2 to 5 cents gain.

Corn was in demand from previous speculative sellers, but price upturns brought about a notable increase of country offerings. Oats were held down by optimistic crop reports.

Closing indemnities, wheat, July 57 to 57 1-8, 58 1-8 to 1-4; Sept. 57 1-4, 58 1-8 to 1-4; Dec. 60 3-4 to 7-8, 61 5-8 to 3-4. Corn, July 57, 57 7-8 to 58; Sept. 52 5-8, 53 1-4; Dec. 46 1-4 to 3-8, 46 5-8 to 3-4.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, June 17, (AP)—Stocks got a taste of pre-bull market dullness Wednesday, drifting slowly lower in a turnover of approximately 900,000 shares, the smallest for a five hour session since July 26, 1926.

The carrier group was depressed by the unfavorable situation depicted by the petition for higher freight rates, particularly the disclosure of deferred maintenance. Many of the points made by the roads in their application for relief were already known, and the market was doubtless influenced by the knowledge that even with prompt consideration by the commission some time must elapse before the assistance requested could be granted.

Bonds were about firm. The German governments continued their recovery and most of the foreigns did well.

Meanwhile the decrease in gold earmarked for foreign account at the local federal reserve bank continues, today's drop being nearly $10,000,000 and metal is still coming in. A few weeks ago an attempt was made to forestall gold receipts here by lowering the rediscount rate, but after only a temporary lull the tide resumed its flow and any firming of money rates over the next few months now seems highly improbable.

Steel ingot production has broken the 40 per cent level and is estimated at 38 per cent of rate capacity.

The largest net losses in the share market were found in the rail division. Atchison and Union Pacific gave up 4 points, New York Central, 3, Norfolk & Western, Baltimore & Ohio, Lehigh Valley and Illinois Central 2 and Nickel Plate 9½, the last named in small sales.

500 APPLICATIONS FOR SCHOOL JOBS

Over 500 men and women have applied for teaching positions in Lamar county schools this year Mrs. Mary Jones Lindsay, county superintendent, said Wednesday. There are only 269 places for teachers in the county.

It is said by the trustees at Powderly and Petty that approximately 150 applicants were made at each place. These applicants included people holding college degrees and those just out of their first year at college as well as others.

Every position for teaching in the county schools has been filled long ago, the superintendent said. The applications, however, still continue to come in.

Ledgers Of King's Daughters Checked

Bringing the organization's books up to date has been a full time job for Mrs. Turner Duncan of the King's Daughters and her assistant this week. A complete analysis of the work done has been put into the ledgers of the social service bureau.

Not one penny is spent for the King's Daughters but what it is placed in the ledger with the cause of its expenditure placed beside it. In a public work of the sort that the King's Daughters do, the supervisor feels that it is necessary to keep a complete check on the office expenses and work.

Once each year the books are audited and submitted to the organization and to the public for examination. Recently Mrs. Duncan has been entering the expenditures on the ledgers.

Dignitaries To Dedicate Harding Mem orial

MARION, O., June 15. — The president of the United States, former President Calvin Coolidge, cabinet members and many state and national dignitaries meet in Marion, June 16, to dedicate the beautiful memorial to the late President Warren Gamaliel Harding, completed nearly two years ago.

President Herbert Hoover will make the principal address of the afternoon, after being introduced by his predecessor in the White House who also accepts the memorial in behalf of the people of the United States. The presentation will be made by Former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, president of the Harding Memorial association, which raised the funds for the $800,000 mausoleum and later constructed it. Governor George White of Ohio, will accept the memorial in behalf of the people of Ohio.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania are expected to be present. All are members of the board of trustees of the association.

On Memorial Day, 1926, the cornerstone of the memorial was laid by former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, assisted by A. Vic Donahey, former governor of Ohio.

It is a circular structure without a roof, 102 feet in diameter and 57 feet high. The outer circumference is composed of 24 Doric columns, each containing 53 tons of marble. Twenty-two fluted Ionic columns constitute the inner circle which encloses the black sarcophagi in which rest the bodies of the late president and Mrs. Harding.

Shown below are (1) President Hoover; (2) Former President Coolidge; (3) interior of the Harding memorial, showing twin sarcophagi; (4) exterior view of the memorial; (5) Harding home in Marion, now a museum; (6) Governor George White of Ohio; (7) former Senator Joseph S. Oil Output Proration On Unit Basis Ratified

Flow 300 Barrels Daily to Each 20-Acre Tract Of Acreage

PLAN IS EVOLVED BY TOM CRANFILL

Action Results In Belief Oil Interests Divided Into Two Groups

TYLER, June 15. (AP)—Proration of oil production in the East Texas field on the unit basis would be attempted, limiting the flow to 300 barrels daily to each 20-acre tract, under a plan ratified Monday by a meeting of about 500 persons, a majority of whom were operators in the Lathrop, Kilgore and Joiner fields.

The plan was evolved by Tom E. Cranfill of Dallas, and others at a meeting of oil and business men here last Thursday presided over by Nathan Adams, Dallas banker. Its formal submission Monday was by a committee composed of C. B. Burton of Tyler, C. L. Witherspoon of San Antonio and E. B. Germany of Dallas.

Unitization Recommended

Unitization of the field under the 300-barrel plan previously had been recommended by the East Texas lease, royalty and producers association.

When the plan was submitted for ratification at the meeting of operators here Monday, hardy opposition was threatened when Charles F. Rosser of Fort Worth contended for strict enforcement of existing state railroad commission proration orders, which had fixed an allowable of 160,000 barrels daily for the field.

The meeting agreed that operators should immediately voluntarily shut in their wells to the 300-barrel limit. Cranfill who presided over the session, said the arbitration committee of seven which would be set up to supervise administration of the plan, would act at once to petition the railroad commission to accept the proposal and issue emergency orders placing it in effect.

As a result of the action at the meeting here Monday, Texas oil interests were regarded as being divided into two groups. One group, headed by W. L. Todd, of Dallas, was organized at a meeting a week ago and last Thursday petitioned Governor Ross Sterling to convene a special session of the legislature to strengthen proration statutes in an effort to make East Texans comply with proration allowable orders.

The vote to ratify the plan was viva voce, showing a preponderance of "ayes." Cranfill said later there wase nine votes in opposition, although a division was not asked when the question was submitted.

PRESIDENT SAYS NATION ON VERGE OF PROSPERITY

Underlying Forces Of Recovery Asserting Themselves,' Says Hoover

CONFIDENCE NEEDED AT PRESENT TIME

Business Situation Dominant Subject Before Country,' He Says

INDIANAPOLIS, June 15. (AP)—President Hoover pointed the nation Monday night to an era of prosperity "greater than ever before" and called upon the people to replace the fear and apprehension of the depression with an attitude of confidence.

"The underlying forces of recovery are asserting themselves," he asserted. "Our transcendent immediate need is a much larger degree of confidence among our business agencies and that they shall extend this confidence in more than words.

Can Remove Mists

"If our people will go forth with the confidence and enterprise which our country justified, many of the mists of this depression will be swept away."

Mr. Hoover spoke before the Indiana republican editorial association in the mammoth fair grounds auditorium. He began his address with the declaration that "the business depression is the dominant subject before the country today."

From the platform in the heart of the region where democrats gained many of their gains in the recent congressional election, he then enumerated his economic policies, his plans for the future and his efforts of the present.

He proposed a revision of the whole national and local taxation system with a view to relieving home owners, land owners and farmers. He advocated revision of the federal reserve and national banking systems to prevent diversion of money into channels of speculation and stock promotion and give greater protection against failure. He condemned the capital gains and loss tax. He urged finally a faith in American ideals and a building up on that system rather than adoption of any new philosophy of government.

FUNERAL MONDAY FOR LONG TIME PARIS LAWYER

Last Rites For A. P. Park Are Held At First Presbyterian Church

A. P. Park, 73, died Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock at the Sanitarium of Paris where he had been about two weeks. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at First Presbyterian church by Dr. F. L. Wear, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church and burial was at Evergreen. Pallbearers were Dr. L. P. McCuistion, S. B. M. Long, A. P. Dohoney, H. B. Birmingham, Tom L. Beauchamp, and W. F. Moore. Members of the Paris bar were designated honorary pallbearers.

The bar association met Monday morning and appointed H. B. Birmingham, S. B. M. Long, W. F. Moore, and A. P. Dohoney a committee to prepare resolutions to be presented to another meeting on Tuesday morning.

Born In Mississippi

Archibald P. Park was born January 1, 1858 at Cton Gin, Miss., one of the eight children of Major M. B. and Mrs. Isabella Smith Park. Major Park was a veteran of the Confederate Army of the Tennessee, promoted for bravery on the field, and a descendant of soldiers of the American Revolution. He moved with his family to Lamar county in 1870, settling near Ambia where he acquired large farming interests and lived the remainder of his life. Two of the eight children, Alva Park of Paris and Mrs. Jennie Rose of Ambia are yet living.

A. P. Park attended school in Paris during his youth, read law and was admitted to the bar in 1881, forming a partnership with the late J. W. Ownby, and later with Judge Walter S. Moore and H. B. Birmingham. A few years after admission to the bar he was elected and served several terms as city attorney of Paris, the only office he ever sought, though he was for some time a member by appointment of the state board of law examiners and presided at several terms of the Sixth district

Personalities Behind The News

(This is one of a series of stories dealing with the little known side of personalities frequently in the news.)

BY LATHROP MACK

(Copyright, 1931, By The Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, June 15. (AP)—Whoever asks a favor of Melvin A. Traylor should take him a piece of cherry pie.

The financial judgment of the president of Chicago's First National bank is rivaled in keenness only by his taste for cherry pie. He has been known to eat it with three meals in one day.

Fried chicken also appeals to Traylor. He boasts he can prepare it better than anyone else in the country. Companions on hunting and fishing trips have testified to Traylor's skill with a skillet.

Traylor, who organized the Bank of International Settlement, engineered the recent purchase of the Foreman State National bank which made the First National a $900,000,000 institution. He never saw a railroad train until he was 13 but he was president of the First National here at 47.

His climb from poverty in southern Kentucky hills included many victories over obstacles, one of them concerning his keenest hobby—golf.

"As a boy I used to chop wood lefthanded," he said. "When I took up golf many years later I swung from the left side. My game failed to progress so I changed over to the usual right hand position and immediately began to prosper."

The banker helped form the Chicago District Golf association.

Youths Confess To Starting Flames In Coal Mine In Ohio

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 15 (AP)—Belmont county authorities announced Monday night that four youths had confessed starting a fire which forced suspension of operations at the Big Run mine of the Rail and River Coal company early Monday.

The young men, all residents of Big Run, were Walter Latos, 17; Tony Valete, 20; Mike Visnic, 19, and Rudy Mikesinavich, 17. All but Mikesinavich were employes of the mine. They were placed in Belmont county jail, charged with arson.

Says Is Communist

Sheriff Howard Duff, who arrest the men, quoted Latos as saying he was a communist and a member of the National Miners union which is directing the strike of approximately 3,000 miners in Jefferson, Belmont and Harrison counties.

The others told Duff they were not members of the union but were sympathizers and started the fire with a view to aiding the strike movement. The fire destroyed the mine wash house containing working clothes of 350 of the 550 employes. Operators said the shaft could not be reopened until the miners could provide themselves with new clothing.

SHIPS, PLANES SEEK VICTIMS OF SHIP DISASTER

Recover 61 Bodies; Eight Of Nearly 400 Passengers Saved

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

NANTES, France, June 15, (AP). Ships and airplanes were scouring the waters off Point St. Gildas Monday night searching for additional bodies of the approximately 400 excursionists who lost their lives Sunday afternoon when the excursion steamer St. Philibert capsized and sank near Noirmoutier island.

As the quest for bodies went on the searchers also nourished the faintest hope that some additional survivors might turn up to be added to the slender list of eight who were rescued Sunday night. Although it was not thought probable, some of the searchers held to the bare possibility that a few others might have made their way to remote havens on the island or the shore.

Late Monday night a total of 61 bodies had been recovered from the sea, 51 of them bodies of women. They were picked up by boats of various descriptions which joined in the search, directed by an airplane high over the surface of the water.

Indescribably sad scenes were enacted on the shore. One man came riding up to the waterfront on a bicycle crying like a child.

"I put my whole life into one ideal," he said, "my young son, 18 years old, who was on that boat."

Relatives thronged the wharves facing the Loire river, wharves piled high with coal, waiting sadly and impatiently for each report of the finding of additional bodies, most of them hoping against hope.

No one knew exactly how many or who was drowned in the catastrophe.

It was officially confirmed that 426 passengers had left Noirmutier island on the return trip. This figure, however, did not include children under four, who paid no fare.

Girl Sought In Death Of Heiress

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP).—The state Monday night was seeking in New York city a girl supposed to have been the last known companion of Starr Faithful, whose body was found half buried in the sands of Long Beach, Long Island, a week ago.

The girl was thought by Nassau county police to have had luncheon with the Greenwich Village beauty the day she vanished.

The authorities were investigating, too, a story told by Harry Goldstein, a prisoner charged with stealing an automobile in Los Angeles, that he had driven Starr and a prominent man on an eight-day motor trip in France and Germany and that he had seen her with the same man in New York on the day of her disappearance.

ROME, June 15, (AP).—A solution of the controversy between the Catholic church and the Italian state is reported from reliable sources to have been found Monday in a plan to reopen thousands of Catholic clubs in Italy, after they had been somewhat reorganized and specially governed.

NAUTILUS IN TOW TOWARD IRELAND

Battleship Wyoming Taking Sir Hubert Wilkins' Polar Sub to Port

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—With the polar submarine Nautilus in tow, the battleship Wyoming made slow way toward Queenstown, Ireland Monday night while navy department officials sought to have a tug sent out to relieve her.

Rear Admiral Claude C. Bloch radioed the chief of naval operations here that in his opinion the Nautilus, in which Sir Hubert Wilkins plans an undersea dash to the North Pole, would have to be towed all the way. On Bloch's recommendation, Admiral Wm. V. Pratt, wired W. Herbert Adams, New York manager of the Wilkins expedition, strongly urging him to have a tug sent from Queenstown immediately.

Battleship Arkansas Leaves

Meanwhile the battleship Arkansas left the Wyoming and Nautilus behind and steamed on for Copenhagen. The battleships bound for Europe with 975 midshipmen on their summer cruise, had been delayed nearly two days in going to the assistance of the submarine.

Heavy seas made it impossible to get a line to the Nautilus until early Monday morning after the battleships had stood by all night and most of Sunday.

When the Nautilus finally was made fast to a steel cable six inches in diameter and the Wyoming started with its tow for Queenstown, it was found a speed of no more than five nights could be maintained.

At this rate the Wyoming faced the prospect of a week of steady sailing before reaching the Irish port.

Earhart at Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 15, (AP). Mrs. Amelia Putnam returned to Oklahoma City late Monday from Enid to have the motor of her Autogiro checked at Curtiss-Wright airport. SALE OF WHEAT WILL CONTINUE

Chairman Stone Says Will Halt When World Market Disturbed

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Chairman Stone said Monday the farm board's stabilization wheat will be sold abroad so long as it does not disturb the world market.

If a good foreign demand continues, he said, wheat will be offered in keeping with the board's policy of disposing of its huge surplus stocks in a manner that will impose the minimum burden on other competitors.

The board last February set 35,000,000 bushels for sale abroad to clear terminals at seaboard ports. At least 25,000,000 bushels have been sold.

Careful Handling Policy

Stone said as much more as can be disposed of in foreign countries without affecting their markets will be offered.

As for sales on the domestic market, he said the policy of careful handling was still in effect.

Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member of the board, retired Monday after two years service. He will remain in Washington several days before returning to his home in Lincoln, Nebraska.

His retirement creates the second vactncy on the board. C. C. Teague, vice chairman, resigned June 1. Their successors have not been chosen by President Hoover.

Liquid Evidence Does Fadeaway In Constable's Office

If liquid evidence is not safe in the constable's office where should it be kept?

Thirteen bottles of beer Saturday were removed from under a table in the constable's office.

The twenty-five bottles of beer were confiscated Saturday afternoon in a raid by the constable's force.

An additional five bottles of the beer Monday were taken from the constable's office.

But now the beer has been removed.

Once before, liquid evidence in the amount of one half-gallon of liquor was removed from the constable's office.

Later an automatic pistol was taken from the same office.

Perhaps the thieves had senses of irony.

Drouth Looming In Middle West; Wheat Suffers

WASHINGTON, June 15. (AP)—The burning fingers of a crop-destroying drouth are tightening their hold on a small cluster of states in the northwest.

Wheat and other crops have suffered heavy losses during May and June, the important month in the spring wheat belt. The prospects for immediate relief were said to be slight. Rain must come soon to save the situation.

The south, too, J. B. Kincer, weather bureau meteorologist, said Monday, is "getting pretty dry," but he emphasized that present indications do not point to a widespread drouth paralleling the 1930 disaster which was echoed in congress with appeals for financial aid.

While the Atlantic seaboard has had an abundance of moisture, the Ohio and Central Mississippi valleys, hardest hit last year, received slightly below normal rainfall this spring.

Motor Carrier Laws Attacked

FORT WORTH, June 15. (AP)—Viewing the motor carrier laws passed in the last legislature as a threat against their own interests, Texas bus owners in convention here Monday spent a whole afternoon describing them as "grossly discriminating, unfair and unconstitutional."

The parts of the law referred to in most vituperative language was those limiting size and weight of commercial trucks and regulating the charge that must be made for their services.

Advertising Will Help Restore The Confidence Of People, Speakers Say

NEW YORK, June 15, (AP)—The responsibility and opportunity facing advertising to help restore the confidence of the people in the country's future and unleash the reservoir of funds now lying idle were emphasized Monday by the speakers before the Advertising Federation of America.

The economic situation—its causes, effects and solution—and the relation of advertising to it—held the spotlight of interest at the opening sesion, as advertising men and women whose work touches the business fabric of the nation heard prominent figures in public and business life analyze the situation.

The speakers at the luncheon which opened the four-day convention and the general session that followed, included Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mayor James J. Walker, Grover C. Whalen, general manager of Wanamakers and former police commissioner of New York City.

Confidence was expressed in the return of prosperity as inevitable, warnings were sounded against striking at purchasing power by widespread wage cutting and the views were heard as to some of the causes of depressed business conditions and some measures were advocated for restoring the country to robust economic wealth.

The purchasing power dammed up in banks because of fear of the future was visualized as both an indication of failure on the part of advertising and its opportunity.

Sounding the keynote of the convention, Gilbert T. Hodges, president of the federation which is meeting in his home city for the first time since it was organized 27 years ago, said that in the return to prosperity lies advertising's greatest opportunity.

Demand For Spot Cotton Greater As Prices Hold

By FRANK L. WELLER
Associated Press Farm Editor

WASHINGTON, June 18. (AP)—Active switching out of July into the more distant months as demand for spot cotton improved and prices held practically unchanged from a week ago marked futures trading over the last market period.

Cooperative brokers bought May but the trade bought other months notably December. Spot houses were good buyers of July against sales of March. New Orleans turned buyer with at times a scarcity of contracts. Most of the buying of near months was credited to mills fixing prices. The market met cotton on the rally but contracts seemed easily absorbed.

Prices touched a new low for the season on June 9 when the average price for middling 7-8 inch went to 7.62 on the 19 markets. By June 12 the price was up to 8.07 compared with 7.96 a week earlier. July futures for the week advanced 8 points at New York, 9 at New Orleans and 5 at Chicago.

Although speculation is an indifferent buyer and there continues to be many inclined to the short side of everything, there seems to be more resistance to declines in the cotton market and a constant amount of price fixing which is giving the market a steadier undertone.

There are plenty to predict lower levels, some going so far as to suggest 7-cent cotton in New York in December, but others recall that liquidation is becoming less active while trade buying goes on all the time and point to the consumption of about 900,000 bales a month.

The department of agriculture says the week brought a fair demand for premium staple, some reports that present available supplies were dwindling to a point where buyers are having trouble in meeting their needs. Southern mill centers said there was a fair demand for raw cotton. Inquiries for carded yarns were said to have improved.

The cotton textile institute says the week resulted in tremendously increased retail sales and likely marks the beginning of continuous and cumulative sales activities in all lines of cotton fabrics. The farm board has been advised that civic organizations of the south are urging daily publicity to increase the consumption of cotton.

Private reports said rain was needed in parts of Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. It was the general opinion that the crop is not making normal June progress. A 500-mile tour through Georgia and the Carolinas convinced one trader that the crop is 2 to 4 weeks late and "does not look good."

Everett R. Cook, president of the Memphis cotton exchange, said that unless something unforseen develops the south will have its greatest reduction in cotton acreage in history.

Reports of boll weevil emergence in Texas and South Carolina indicate emergency in some spots in Texas is the highest of record. The American cotton crop service says weevil damage for the belt as a whole never exceeds that of the preceding year by more than 12 per cent. The estimated damage for 1930 was 8 per cent and maximum damage for 1931, it says, should not exceed 17 per cent.

Cows Pay $20 Ton For Home Grown Feeds

QUITMAN.—In spite of low milk prices Jersey cows have turned home grown bulky feed into profit and kept up the fertility of the soil for James F. Taylor, dairy herd demonstrator of East Point community, Wood county. As reported by James W. McGown, county agent, the ration for the first three months of the year consisted of 10 pounds daily of ground hegari bundles, 8 pounds Bermuda hay, 5 pounds ground peanut vines including nuts, and 2½ pounds cottonseed meal. They produced an average of 20 pounds of milk per day and at market prices it brought $20 per ton for the ground roughages after figuring $5 per ton for the grinding, and counting the manure worth the labor of caring for the cows. Mr. Taylor states that the cows have given more milk during this period on this demonstration system than ever before at the same time of the year.

STORES TO CLOSE AT 5 DURING JULY, AUGUST

To Remain Open July 4. Questionable Advertising Schemes Scored

The institution of Farmers' Sales Day received a boost, "wildcat" advertising schemes got a hard knock, retail store employes were voted an extra 54 hours vacation during July and August, and Paris merchants decided not to close on the fourth of July, when the retailers' division of the Chamber of Commerce held its monthly meeting Tuesday morning.

Following a custom of several years standing, stores will close at 5 o'clock from July 1 to September 1, it was decided. In voting not to close stores on the Fourth of July, the body took into consideration that no formal program had been planned and that people from out of town who come to Paris for their supplies would be seriously inconvenienced by a Saturday closing.

T. E. Revell, chairman, reported that the advertising committee is functioning, saying that much waste on advertising schemes of questionable merit can be avoided if merchants will refer solicitors to the advertisnig committee for approval of their proposition before buying.

Tax Payers May Consult Board Of Equalization

"City taxpayers who wish to consult with the Board of Equalization may do so before Thursday night," Mrs. Odus Park, city secretary said Tuesday afternoon. The board is in session in the council room at the city hall.

The board of equalization as its name signifies makes the taxes in Paris equal according to the amount of taxable property there is to render. If a taxpayer renders his taxes too low, the board requests to see the taxpayer and see what the cause of the rendition is. This board also receives requests of citizens for lowering taxes.

The three men who comprise the board have been working over the tax renditions for several weeks.

Expect to Ship Many Potatoes

With the digging of potatoes as soon as the ground dries and in the event of fair prices, between 50 and 60 acres of potatoes are expected to be shipped from Arthur City and Trout spur, A. L. Edmiaston, county agent, said Tuesday. Tuesday, prices ranged from 85 cents to $1 per hundred pounds.

Buyers from northern firms have moved in preparatory to the shipping of the potato crop.

Although the yield was cut short by frost, heavy shipping is expected from the productions of the farms in the northern section of the county along Red river.

'DISILLUSIONMENT SEARED SOUL OF HARDING' -- HOOVER

President Says Former Executive Knew He Was Being Betrayed

CONFLICTING TALES TOLD IN CAPITAL

Republican Leader Brings Eye-Witness Version of Last Days

WASHINGTON, June 16. (AP)—Memories confused by years of questionings and rumor were stirred Tuesday by Herbert Hoover's words of tribute and compassion for Warren Harding.

A subject long and deeply pondered was touched by the president with the intimate directness of an eye witness when he thus described at Marion the last days of Mr. Harding:

"He was a man whose soul was being seared by a great disillusionment. Warren Harding had a dim realization that he was being betrayed by a few of the men whom he had trusted."

Many Stories Told

Many have been the conflicting stories told in Washington as the proof of how much or how little the dying president foresaw the revelations which rocked the country after he had passed away. Fragments of recollection of incidents and chance remarks have been marshalled in countless efforts to piece out circumstantially the real story. Books have been written, one at least of those who was nearest the central figure of the drama has considered publication of a volume in refutation.

Out of it all has emerged very little of detail having the color of accepted authenticity. It has become common belief in the capital, however, that Mr. Harding did come to a realization of some of those irregularities. In the veterans bureau for which Charles R. Forbes was sent to prison, and that he heard and partly believed some of the grave charges which months later drove Harry M. Daugherty from the cabinet. It remains more of a mystery what he may have known or suspected of the transactions which now have brought Albert E. Fall to the door of the penitentiary.

Mr. Hoover's statements Tuesday are the first public confirmation from such a source that matters like these were heavy on the mind of the twenty-ninth president as he approached the end of his life.

Coming from such a source, these statements were accepted in Washington as a most unusual contribution to contemporary history. It is extraordinary that a president, dying far from home, should have had almost at his bedside another destined for the presidency, who later should testify in the tenor of Mr. Hoover's remarks at Marion.

PERSONALITIES

He served as president of the United States Golf association, controlling body of the nation's game. He has held the flag in many matches involving Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and other famous players, often acting as an ordinary referee during a shortage of officials.

Once as he was attending a national tournament word came from Chicago of a financial turmoil caused by the loss of a famous fortune. Telephone calls, telegrams and personal messages failed to stir him until the last putt had dropped and the meet was over. He still attends every important meet.

He is 52 years old, quiet and proud that he read the Bible "from cover to cover" before he was 15. It was his only literature. He wore no shoes until he was seven.

In politics he is a Democrat, an adviser of Mayor A. J. Cermack and of state officials on party questions as well as finance. Senator J. Hamilton Lewis has referred to him as "the coming secretary of the treasury."

Taylor's office is accessible to almost everyone. He welcomes criticism of his opinions but resents challenges of his integrity. He demands that his subordinates do their own work and make their own decisions.

"Take it to our legal department," he once told an official who sought to draw upon his knowledge of law. "That's what it's for."

The Bible Talk
By Ed H. McCuistion

THE SIN OF CAUSING OTHERS TO STUMBLE

Reported by Elizabeth Duvall.

This is our quarterly temperance lesson and is taken from Paul's letter to the Romans. At the end of Paul's third missionary journey in the year A. D. 57, he stopped in the city of Corinth for a period of three months. He had been making collections among the Greek churches to aid the poor in Jerusalem. He expected to continue his journey to that city, carrying with him the funds he had collected, and thereafter he expected to go to Rome.

While in the city of Corinth he wrote a letter to the church in Rome telling them of his intended visit and an excerpt from that letter constitutes our lesson today.

Paul indeed went to Rome but not as he expected. When he reached Jerusalem he was set upon by an angry mob, was arrested, kept in prison for a period of two years and was carried to Rome as a prisoner.

There was a burning question in that day and time not only in the Roman church but in other Gentile churches throughout the land. We must remember that the offering of animals on sacrificial altars was not a custom peculiar to the Jews. It had been instituted by God himself in the earliest peirod of the world's history. Abel had offered the firstlings of his flock on rude stone altars which he himself had erected. As the people dispersed themselves over the earth this same custom or mode of worship was carried with them, but among the Gentiles the custom had assumed many forms and had been sadly perverted in many ways, but it was still observed almost universally. The Jews had segregated themselves from the Gentile world so completely that all their customs differed to a greater or less extent from those of the Gentile nations.

The burning question of which we speak was that the Gentiles, after they had offered the legs and entrails of the sacrificial animals and they had been burned on the altar, the balance of the animals bodies were either sold to the butchers in the public market or consumed on festival occasions or in private homes in family celebrations. Those who had been converted from heathenism to the Christian faith found themselves confronted with Jews as members in the same church and Jews did not tolerate the association with themselves in worship of those who were not particular about whether or not animals had been offered to heathen gods or on heathen altars.

Without entering into the details of this long story, Christ taught that nothing was common or unclean, that nothing taken into the body as food contaminated man. Paul was equally certain that this was true and in this letter he counsels the church that no animals is unclean, but for the sake of those who think so, those of us who are strong and robust of faith, should desist from eating meat if it offended the sensitive consciences of our weak brothers. He put the whole matter very strongly when he said "If eating meat causes my brother to falter or to stumble, I will eat no more meat forever."

Then he told the church that they could not afford by the indulgence of this kind to destroy a man for whom Christ had died.

But the whole question which was then such a burning issue is now a dead issue. There is no such question among the churches. But the principle which underlaid that is to be found in a great number of issues which confront both men and churches today. The temperance question is one of these. Hosts and hundreds of men can drink wine or even stronger intoxicants and still maintain control of themselves, not becoming a victim of a vicious habit, but there are many thousands who can not, and it is for the sake of those who are weak and those who can not save themselves from vicious habits if they indulge at all for whom we plead in this lesson. The greatest step towards a higher civilization that has been taken in all the history of our country occurred when the eighteenth amendment was adopted. There is much said about repealing it now but it is hard to believe that the American people, after enjoying the benefits and fruits of prohibition for so long, would ever turn back to the dark and forbidding times when the whole nation was debauched by wild excesses in the use of intoxicants. If the eighteenth amendment should be repealed with the increased power of advertising in magazines and over radios and numerous other ways, the evil results flowing from perfect freedom in use of intoxicants would in apparently few years destroy the best that we know in our western civilization.

A total of 3,000 pounds of beets were fed and Mr. Stone said he had enough left for another 20 days.

SPECULATION ON HOOVER'S PLAN OF TAX REVISION

Definite Move Toward Such Legislation at Next Congress Debated

WASHINGTON, June 16. (AP)—President Hoover's proposals for revision of the nation's tax and banking systems brought speculation Tuesday on whether a definite move toward such legislation would be made at the next congress.

The chief executive's recommendations were voiced at Indianapolis Monday night in an address devoted to business conditions.

Previously, Secretary Mellon and undersecretary Mills had advocated revision of the tax laws.

Approval of the Hoover address was expressed by Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, while Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, criticized it for failing to give definite recommendations.

Reserve System Inadequate

President Hoover said the Federal reserve system was inadequate to prevent diversion of funds into "wasteful speculation and stock promotion" and that the banking system must be "organzed to give greater protection to depositors against failures."

He added "we must determine whether the facilities of our security and commodity exchanges are not being used to create illegitimate speculation and intensify depressions."

Bingham said he favored elimination of the capital gains on tax on the ground that such action would promote better business conditions and increase the income of the treasury.

Senator Caraway said he agreed some changes in the banking and tax systems might be advisable.

"But what Mr. Hoover said," he added, "is this: 'There is some way out of the depression, but I don't know what it is.'"

FIND BODIES OF 77 FROM VESSEL

Body Of Captain Of Ill Fated Steamer Washed Ashore Tuesday

NANTES, France, June 16. (AP)—Seventy seven victims of the 450 believed to have drowned in the sinking of the excursion boat St. Philibert had been accounted for Tuesday night but not all of them have been identified.

The bodies of two men were washed ashore Tuesday afternoon at Porniches, where three others were found during the morning.

One of the two washed up Tuesday afternoon was that of Capt. Olive of the ill-fated steamer. He was 52 years old and ready to retire from active service when he took command of the boat for Sunday's excursion by special request.

City and department officials were preparing Tuesday for a collective funeral on Thursday at St. Peter's cathedral. Afterward, it was understood, the families and relatives of the victims will inter their own loved ones.

The fire department answered a call Monday night in the negro district on Railroad street. When the firemen arrived the house of Harvey Turner was so far burned it could not be saved, but adjacent houses were extinguished with small damage. This was the first fire in Honey Grove in several weeks.

Officers were called Sunday night to settle a fight between Robert Stevens and his wife, negroes, which took place in the northeast part of town. When officers arrived they found Stevens wife badly beaten and the man was gone. No trace of him has been found.

CAPONE ENTERS PLEA OF GUILTY TO TRIO CHARGES

Income Tax Evasion, Conspiracy to Violate Prohibition Laws Alleged

FACES POSSIBLE 34 YEAR SENTENCE

Hearing Means Abdication Of Throne He Has Held Ten Years

CHICAGO, June 16. (AP)—Alphonse Capone, scarfaced czar of Chicago's gangs, pleaded guilty to three federal indictments Tuesday, surrendering in a three-minute federal court hearing to a mass of evidence and a striking record of prosecutions.

Two indictments charging him with evading income taxes and another naming him and 68 others for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws on 5,000 charges were read in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court. After each indictment the burly gangster meekly said "guilty." On a defense motion, the court deferred sentence until June 30.

Police Escort Gangster.

Fifteen minutes after he had entered the federal court building Capone was gone, escorted through the crowds by a squad of police, a monarch stripped of his realm, still the object of almost unparalelled curiosity. Thousands jammed the streets outside the federal building to see him.

In throwing himself on the mercy of the court, Capone became subject to a possible 34 years imprisonment and a $30,000 fine. Maximum sentence on the liquor conspiracy count was two years. A 32-year sentence was possible under the two income tax indictments, but precedent would indicate a much lighter sentence.

The longest sentence for income tax evasion on a plea of guilty has been two years.

Blow to Al.

For Capone the hearing was a severe blow, the certain abdication for a time at least of the throne he has held for 10 years. With the exception of a year spent in a Philadelphia jail for carrying concealed weapons and a federal sentence of six months, still under appeal, for contempt of court, Capone had gone his way, working at the head of his own gang and then wiping out the others almost unmolested by the law.

He had achieved a worldwide reputation for the ruthless way he ruled the underworld, and the many audacious murders supposedly executed by his corps of gunmen. Tuesday night the talk concerned Capone's successor. It was two weeks before sentence was to be passed, possibly longer before he actually goes to prison, but Capone was spoken of already as out of the way.

Favorable Yield From Oat Tracts In This County

Throughout the west section of the county farmers during the past two weeks have been busy harvesting oats. Favorable weather conditions during the winter and spring have effected excellent yields.

With the increase of acreage devoted to oats and wheat in Lamar county, much interest has been stimulated in combines. At the present time there are three combines in operation in Lamar county. Mechanical power on the larger farms gradually is replacing the mules.

With an expected yield of 75 to 80 bushels of oats per acre, a 67 acre plot on Jack Coleman's farm near High recently was harvested by means of a combine. Not only does the combine cut and thresh the oats but the straw is scattered back on the ground to be plowed under for fertilizer.

In addition to the 67 acre plot in oats, Mr. Coleman has 189 acres of spring oats which he expects to thresh at an early date. The 67 acre plot last year was in cotton and in November was sowed in oats at 3½ bushels per acre.

Reduction For Fire Insurance At Warehouses

AUSTIN, June 16.—Fifty per cent of the agricultural warehouses of Texas have obtained a reduction in fire insurance rates since January by complying with a fire insurance commission rule to make a monthly report to the commission, according to L. L. Shackelford, warehouse chief.

By making a monthly report of the condition of their premises in regard to fire hazards, the warehouses are entitled to a 15 per cent reduction in their rates. Few of the warehouse owners know of this law, and hence were not taking advantage of it.

The monthly report also serves as a regular reminder to operators of storage houses to protect their establishments against the danger of fire.

COTTON MAN URGES SUBSTITUTION OF COTTON FOR JUTE

AUSTIN, June 16.—In a letter to J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, the belief was expressed by W. J. Walker, cotton agency proprietor of New Orleans that jute holds the "balance of power" in arriving at the price of cotton.

Walker cited figures from Leaville McCampbell, cotton manufacturer and selling agent of New York city, that to replace jute with cotton in its many uses as burlap bags and bagging would increase the consumption of American cotton in America by 1,500,000 bales a year.

"The farmer will have to start housecleaning at home, by covering his cotton with cotton bagging, by demanding his fertilizer sacked in cotton sacks," Walker declared. "Positively no success can be had in reaching increased use of cotton when the farmer uses jute.

"Cotton bagging and cotton sacks are available and if the farmer will demand them, half the battle will be won.

"Just suppose that six years ago we had stopped importation of jute into this country, or had refrained from using it for any purpose. We would have consumed about nine million bales or more of cotton in that period, and there would be a cotton famine now instead of the largest surplus in the history of the south."

Approximately 450 acres of oats have been threshed on Oscar McBath's farm near High, with a remainder of 150 acres in oats yet to be threshed. A combine and four binders have been in use on the McBath farm. Mr. McBath expects a yield of more than 50 bushels per acre.

Planted in cotton and oats last year, 300 acres of the land sowed in oats pastured cattle during the fall. Approximately 300 acres were sown in oats in October while the remaining 350 acres were sown in January. Three, three and one-half bushels of oats were sown per acre.

Sufficient oats for feed will be saved while the remainder will be sold, Mr. McBath said. On the farm are granaries with a capacity of 40,000 bushels.

From 80 acres on Oscar Duggan's farm north of Paris, 4,000 bushels of oats were threshed with a combine. A remaining 200 acres of oats will be harvested when dryness returns. Approximately 1,500 bushels of oats already have been threshed from the 200 acres.

Of the remaining 200 acres to be threshed, 100 acres are in spring oats while 100 are in fall oats. Approximately 2 bushels of oats were sown per acre in both acres, while 60 acres were volunteer oats. Oats occupied 40 acres of the land last year with the remainder being used for cotton.

Approximately 110 head of cattle were pastured through the winter on 60 acres of the land now taken off March 1. The cattle will be put back on the land when the oats have been threshed.

With an expected yield of 50 to 75 bushels of oats per acre, 75 acres of the M. L. Bailey farm west of Paris Monday were finished in harvesting. The land this year was in oats and probably will be used for oats next year.

Average of 3½ bushels per acre were sown in 300 acres in fall oats and 200 acres in spring oats. Nearly all the oats will be used for feed.

'BIGGER AND BETTER VEGETABLES' SLOGAN OF TEXAS GARDENER

AUSTIN, June 16.—Texas gardeners are going in for bigger and better fruits and vegetables.

At least that's the opinion of A. Canon, marketing chief in the department of agriculture, who only is the demand for inspection in the usual truck garden products heavier than ever before, but locations outside the regular commercial areas apparently are seeking to bring their vegetables and fruits up to standards set by the state and federal departments of agriculture, Canon said.

Scores of requests have been received for the state department's bulletin outlining governing standards, which have been adopted officially by the state. In a single day recently, requests were received for 350 copies.

These bulletins are being used principally by home demonstration agents, working out of A. M. college, who seek to teach farmers and club members to concentrate on quality as well as quantity in their gardens, large or small.

When the production of a section justifies inspection service and requests are made for such service, an accredited inspector is sent to the point to certify to the standard of vegetables being shipped to market. But even in the communities where truck gardening is not considered of major importance the individual farmer may be adhering to accepted standards, build up his reputation for quality production and thus creating a ready demand for his produce, Canon pointed out.

Deaths and in Memoriam 3

In 1881 when Archie Park was admitted to the practice of law, I was justice of the peace in precinct No. 2 in Lamar county. Arch commenced his law practice in our regular monthly terms of court, and some of his first cases were in our court.

He and a number of Paris lawyers came out regularly once every month, making the trip on horseback. I recall the names Jim Long, Horace Brooks, who was also just commencing the practice at law, Jake Hodges was the county attorney.

That was 50 years ago, and I have known Arch ever since, and Paris never had in all these years a better citizen, a more dependable, conscientious lawyer. I have heard numbers of men who have gone to him for advice say that he advised them to try and compromise their troubles and have no law suit, when he could have gotten a fee by taking the case. Not many lawyers would do this when it meant the loss of a fee.

CONNECTICUT SETS AN EXAMPLE

CALIFORNIA'S recent complaint of the failure of intensive safety drives to halt an increasing motor accident record is countered by the contrasting success of similar measures in Connecticut. For two years in succession the latter state has recorded a diminishing number of automobile accidents, and last year the number of persons killed in such mishaps fell 10 per cent, accompanied by a three per cent decline in the number of injured.

Reports for the first four months of 1931 show that safety propaganda is continuing to bear fruit despite another increase in the registrations. Accidents numbered 4,518 against 5,407 in the first third of 1930; fatalities, 102, against 114; injuries 2,970, against 3,157.

These results invite study. The research director of the Connecticut department of motor vehicles attributes them to "the response of the public to appeals for caution and careful driving and walking," made through governmental authority, motor clubs and civic organizations. But these are precisely the methods used elsewhere—not alone in California, but in dozens of other states—without effect.

Is it possible that the people of Connecticut are more responsive to appeals to common sense than their neighbors? Or are the regulative laws of that state more uniformly and stringently enforced?

ALL QUIET ON RIO GRANDE

IN the proposed abandonment of Forts D. A. Russell and Brown and Camps Stephen D. Little and Harry J. Jones "because they are obsolete and no longer of strategic value" lies, possibly the most significant fact in the plan to pare the Army budget.

All four forts are on the Mexican border. For years following the Madero revolution, Ft. Russell, then Camp Marfa, was a center of border patrol activity. Ojinaga, directly south of Marfa, was a pawn passed from one revolution horde to another. Bandit raids into the Big Bend cattle country were of almost daily occurrence. Ft. Brown, another far-flung out-post of the First Cavalry Division guarded the lower Rio Grande. Camp Little and Camp Jones were created soon after Villa's raid on Columbus, and maintained because of the constant menace of guerilla warfare in troubled Sonora.

In the passing of these four posts is a gratifying recognition of the fact that Mexico is at last possessed of a government competent to police its own frontiers and solve its own problems. Forts Bliss, Huachuca and Sam Houston remain, reminding us that we have not yet achieved an unguarded border-line to the south as to the north, but at least an encouraging step has been taken toward the accomplishment of that ideal.

GOOD WORK

THE state Fire Marshal's department of Louisiana is making an earnest effort to banish fire waste in that state.

Intensive work along educational lines is done in the schools with the objective of instilling ideas of knowledge and carefulness in the men and women of tomorrow.

During fire prevention week addresses are made and motion pictures of actual fires are shown that demonstrate the disastrous results of carelessness.

Inspections are constantly made, and in New Orleans alone, 1,264 major hazards were removed during 1930. During that year the average loss per fire was more than $1,800, which indicates what the fire loss might have been if the eliminated fire hazards had been allowed to remain. The Fire Marshal's office advises on public plans and as to the best methods of correcting existing hazards. Continuous effort, now proving successful, is made to do away with arson and punish the arsonist.

Every state should conduct some such work as this. It should, as well, be done with an attempt to secure the public co-operation that is so necessary to real fire prevention. Once the public realizes that hazards can be readily and cheaply removed and that fire is a matter for individual responsibility, our terrible half-billion dollar annual loss will begin to recede.

MOTOR-LINED CURBS

MOTORS at rest offer a problem as baffling as those in action. To park or not to park is the daily question in every live town in the United States. In most communities garage and outdoor parking space are inadequate to meet the needs of those who motor to town to business by day and to the theatre by night.

Curbstones suddenly become a national nuisance, and likewise a national necessity, if automobiles are to be used at all in crowded centers. The slowing down of traffic by long files of parked cars is not the only resultant inconvenience.

Householders are loud in their complaints, and justly so, of car owners, who park in front of their houses from morning until night, depriving them of the use of parking and unloading facilities and obstructing their view of the street. This is an abuse which can be controlled, but seldom is.

The transition of the motor car from a luxury to a necessity has been so swift, sudden and universal that municipalities have not had time to adjust themselves to new conditions which have followed in its tracks. And the most optimistic are not so sure the "best minds" will be able to solve this problem.

EVERYTHING CIRCULATES—WATER, MATTER, IDEAS, LIES AND THE TRUTH THEY ALL GET AROUND

Marshall Maslin

EVERYTHING gets around.

Sooner or later it does.

Everything circulates.

Even matter gets around ..... A seed falls and germinates. It pushes it way through the dark earth, reaches the sunlight, grows toward the sky. It becomes a great tree and lives for a thousand years, dies and rots and nourishes the rich earth and is food for seeds.

Water gets around ..... It falls on the hills and flows to the valleys. It rushes to the sea and joins the great currents there. It rises toward the sun, congregates in the clouds, falls again to the thirsty earth.

Ideas get around ..... The thoughts that men have live undiminished and unscarred through the tumultuous centuries. Rejected by the ignorant, embraced by the wise, they survive ..... The thoughts men had in India five thousand years ago fell into books and went across the sea to New England and into the brain of a Yankee named Thoreau. He wrote an essay on "Civil Disobedience." Half a century later a little brown Hindu read that essay in South Africa, took the idea back with him to India, and proposed "Civil Disobedience" to the restless masses of his native land

That idea got around.

Truth gets around ..... Lies get around ..... Gossip gets around ..... Fear gets around ..... Courage gets around ..... Everything, today or tomorrow, this year, or next, gets around. It creeps, it tunnels, it walks, it runs, it filters, it flies—and it gets around.

What you are really like—gets around. People find out and they tell—with a wink, with a growl, with a lift of the eyebrows, with silence, with the eager spoken word. If you are a fine fellow or a hypocrite, a racketeer or a square-shooter, it will get around. People will know because—as the wind moves and the water flows and thoughts fly from man to man—Everything Gets Around.

POLITICIANS BLAMED FOR TRADE PARALYSIS THROUGHOUT WORLD

By Sir George Paish
British Economist

THE prevailing international unemployment situation can be attributed to the policies pursued by the governments of the world and the disease of industrial idleness can be characterized as mainly political. The politicians and the statesmen must bear the responsibility.

They have done everything in their power; they desired to do everything in their power to hamper trade. They have increased tariffs, they have imposed embargoes, they have created licenses; in fact, they have left nothing undone to hamper trade. I wish to compliment the politicians and the statesmen of the world upon the success of their policy. They have left nothing undone to hamper the trade of the world and to bring ruin. They have succeeded, but it means the suicide of the world. It is essential that people should realize the danger in which they are, the danger of the complete breakdown of trade bringing unparalleled distress.

This is no mere trade depression. It is a catastrophe of the first moment.

This crisis is merely a continuation of the effects of the shock experienced from the war. The world's economic and financial structure is suffering from an unprecedented over-extension of credit which had never been equaled, with the result that huge amounts of credit could not be honored.

The present situation is indeed a grave one. It is not only grave in America, but it is grave in Great Britain; it is grave on the whole continent; in Asia, South America, Australia, Canada; in fact, there is no part of the world in which there is not great distress.

Each nation has been trying to get out, thinking that its problem is a local one. This has carried us into deeper and deeper distress. This problem is not merely a national problem. It is essential that every nation in the world should co-operate with every other nation to get the world out of distress. The world problem must be faced by the world.

Unless nations stop thinking of another war and shaping their policies accordingly and concentrate their policies on peace and international co-operation, there will be increasing distress in ever larger measure until you hvae difficulty, misfortune and revolution from one end of the world to the other.

STAR LORE

MOON USES ONE SIDERIAL ORBIT ANNUALLY CATCHING UP WITH SUN

THE reason for the moon making one more Sidereal revolution annually than it does Synodic revolution is easily understood: The moon does not complete a Synodic revolution until it has caught up with the sun arriving at the same meridian on the celestial sphere with the sun. The moon constantly journeys eastward in its orbit, but the sun also appears to be moving eastward, too. In a month the sun appears to journey eastward 30 degrees while a star appears to stand still. So the moon, in addition to finishing one Sidereal month, has yet to overtake the sun to complete a Synodic month. This amounts to one lunar orbit in a year.

OVER THE BILLS TO THE POORHOUSE

Comments From Contemporaries

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

There will no cheering or clapping of hands at the news that Senator Fess will probably remain as chairman of the Republican National committee. When he was first appointed, it was understood that it was to act as a stop-gap. His friends said that his senatorial duties were too arduous to enable him to stay on. Then Robert H. Lucas was brought in to take over the burden of office work, and in rapid succession both Messrs. Fess and Lucas committed blunders which disqualified them as spokesmen for the party.

Optimists may discern a ray of hope in a very brief dispatch which says that Senator Fess denies that he has agreed to stay; but this is solace of a pretty negative kind. Republicans have not forgotten Senator Fess' blunder of November 10, in which he virtually told them to accept the Eighteenth amendment as an article of faith or else quit the party scene. It would be far simpler to have Senator Fess depart. It would also be much better politics.

GREENVILLE HERALD

While the government worries about overproduction in almost every line of farming endeavor, the Federal Reserve Bank report issued June 1 quotes the Department of Agriculture as saying there has been a record emergence of insects this year. A relatively warm winter and a cool spring have made conditions fine for the insects. Last year there were practically no insects, the terrific cold weather of the preceding winter having cut the emergence to low levels.

The Department of Agriculture is of the opinion, therefore that crops everywhere will be susceptible to insect ravages this year. Particularly is this true of cotton, which has the boll worm and boll weevil period to go through.

It wouldn't be at all surprising to witness a radical reduction of the cotton surplus this year by way of the boll worm and boll weevil. Heretofore, when the Department of Agriculture has recorded large insect emergence the cotton crop has been materially cut, no matter how good the showing of the plant in the early stages.

What does he mean, "heart?"

Air Yarn.

The friend of a New York newspaper woman flew over Long Island with one of the most famous of the American aviatrices. At short intervals, as she explains it, the plane shimmied up and down with an effect that caused the lone cabin passenger to wish that she had led a better life.

At the end of the unsteady ride the pilot asked her guest if she had seen a certain country club, a certain estate and other points of interest.

"Oh, I'm so sorry," she said, when told that her passenger had seen practicaly nothing. "It's strange, though, that you missed so much. Every time we passed something interesting I jiggled the plane to call your attention to it."

Modernistic Grace.

Explaining that modern decorations must be based on industrial motifs, Henry Billings, painter of mechanical murals, declares that:

"The curve of a crankshaft is more important nowadays than the curve of a lily bending in the wind."

Perspiring buyers are rushing about choosing the sables Milday will wear next January—if she is lucky.

Infants' Progress.

Several year ago, simple division and fraction marked the limits of the nine-year old child's mind. Today, the rule of eleven ranks equally in importance.

Encouraged by some parents who have lofty social ambitions and are confident that the playing of a good game of bridge will assure their offspring's future popularity—and by other parents and teachers who consider the game excellent mental and ethical training—bridge lessons have become as integral a part of the nine and ten-year old child's life as dancing and French lessons.

In other words, London Bridge has given way to contract.

Consolation.

Billy Minsky, the Burley-cue Baron of West 42nd street, wired Tex Guinan: "If France don't want you, we do."

That's the first time I ever heard of Tex being offered anything in keeping with her talents.

Opportunity Knocked.

A scenario writer who didn't make good as a Hollywood worker tells of trying for months to sell a scenario. It happened that George Arliss heard an outline of the story and saw in it possibilities.

One day when the writer was knee-deep in gloom his telephone rang.

"This is George Arliss talking—"

"Yeah? Whoniell d'you think you're kiddin'?"

"But my dear fellow, this really is George Arliss—"

"Well, Mr. Arliss," replied the writer, "I hope you're more of an athlete than I think you are. You'll have to be to follow my advice, which is this—"

And having advised Mr. Arliss, the writer banged up the phone.

They say now that when he wakes up in the night and thinks of what a North American side show he made of himself, the scenario writer buries his face in his pillow and moans.

Personally, I don't believe the story; but that's the way it was told to me."

In the News 13 Years Ago

From the files of The Paris Morning News thirteen years ago today.

Monday, June 17, 1918.

James H. Hall and Miss Nell Dudley were married at the home of the bride on Lamar avenue by Rev. Bob Shuler.

Captain James Wiggins Hardison died at the sanitarium following an operation which had been too long delayed.

J. S. Beckham, 63, a farmer living northeast of Paris, died at his home. He came to Texas from Georgia in 1858.

A man from a town east of Paris drove his automobile against a box car at the Bonham street crossing of the Frisco, ruined the auto and paid fines for being drunk and reckless driving.

The democratic county executive committee ordered a single primary on account of people being busy in the war.

Backward Glances

By A. W. Neville

The first fair of which I have been able to learn in Lamar county was held about 1867, when the men had come back from the war and were beginning to start life again. The ground was almost due south of town near Baker branch, beyond where is now the Texas and Pacific railroad. This fair continued several years, and when I came here in 1879 one of the buildings was still standing, but there was no fair held and there had been none for several years.

About 1884 some citizens organized a fair association and had it chartered under the name of the Lamar County Agricultural and Mechanical association, with W. W. Stell president and John H. Walker secretary. This association bought some land from J. C. McCrummen and R. C. Chisum, near where the Greenville road crosses the Texas and Pacific track southwest of Paris and built a fence and some barns and a grand stand, racing being the principal attraction.

The fair was not successful financially. In August the association borrowed from Lamar county's permanent school fund $3000, which was to be repaid after the fair was held, but the money did not come in and there were debts to lumber men and builders and others. So on Sept. 8 the association executed a note to the county for the $3000, endorsed personally by T. D. Craig, J. C. McCrummen, A. B. Long, M. O. Roberts, W. H. Jennings, J. S. Crook, John Martin, R. A. Gresham, Joe Lyons and V. W. Hale. A deed of trust was executed by the association to B. J. Baldwin, to secure the county in the payment of the loan.

In January, 1885, as the association owed a number of small bills and some of the creditors were threatening to bring suit for their money, the association went again to the county commissioners and borrowed $4000, paying the $3000 note and interest and taking the balance in cash, and executing another deed of trust to indemnify the endorsers of the note for $4000.

Another fair was held in the fall of 1885 and this too was financially unsuccessful and the note could not be paid. The endorsers on the note in December of that year made a personal note to the county for $4200, due in March, 1886. The land was sold to repay the endorsers and 22 years later, to clear a title to the land, Leslie Hardison, then county judge, executed a release of the deed of trust, setting forth that the loan had "long since been repaid." That was the last fair until the present Lamar county fair was organized.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of THE HUMAN BO

Dr. Clendening

Of chronic headaches, migraine in one of its many forms is probably the commonest. Sometimes it is called sick headache, because there are usually symptoms of digestive upset that go with it, especially nausea, possibly even vomiting. When these digestive symptoms overshadow the headache the patient often calls them attacks of biliousness. I learned several years ago that patients who use the old, and among medical men discarded, term biliousness and say they are subject to biliousness, really have abdominal migraine.

Migraine is a peculiar constitutional disease which afflicts certain people, and visits them in attacks. It usually begins at about the age of 15 or 20 and lasts until about the age of 40 or 50, when it goes away, never to return. The attacks come on once a week or once a fortnight, or once a month, or two or three times a year, the time varying with different individuals.

A typical attack can usually be predicted by the victim. There may be spots before the eyes, or the sound of ringing bells in the ears, or of fullness in the abdomen. These preliminary warnings are quite varied, but the victim always knows the headache will come on a few hours afterward. The headache itself is often on one side of the head; it is accompanied by nausea, and sometimes vomiting and a feeling as if the stomach and bowels were absolutely paralyzed. On account of these digestive symptoms the victim usually ascribes it to poisoning from the intestinal tract and blames something in the diet, but this is undeserved. Varying the diet is not calculated to stop the attacks.

It is a mysterious disease. And aside from the known fact that it is hereditary and runs in families, we know little or nothing about its causes. Of its hereditary nature there is no doubt whatever. It been traced in one inst through five generations, on more members of the famil each generation being subjec attacks.

Treatment has not been spicuously successful. Much be done to moderate the dis fort of the attack itself, but vention of recurrences can n assurred to anyone. Diet has found to be of little value. important, however, for the tient to be warned against ge on a one-sided, unbalanced di a starvation diet in the idea the attacks are due to food soning or digestive upsets. cal treatments of all kinds sh be regarded with suspicion. hopes aroused of cure by ren of the gallbladder have bee most instances disappointmen

The best results in the pr tion of recurrent attacks has from the injection in the ve foreign proteins, particularly tone. The treatment mus course, be conducted under th rection of a physician. In n cass, a course of treatments o sort has banished the disease years.

For treatment of the acute tack many patients have the perience that if they can get a thartic to act in the early st before the bowels become par ed the attack will be aborted. relief of the headache itself patient has his or her own f ite remedy, most of them base the formula of the familiar graine" tablets, to be found in drug store.

Guiding Your Child

PLAYING WITH WATER.
By Mrs. Agnes Lyne.

Every child loves to play with water. He can learn a great deal and have intense fun with it while the stage of his interest lasts. The pleasure of playing with water need not be denied, as it usually is, from motives of health and convenience.

Both the kitchen sink and the bath tub are under proper circumstances fine places to use for play.

When the child is about to take a bath or a nap, and his clothes are soon to be removed anyway, there is no harm in getting pretty wet just prior to the event. But it is quite possible to keep him dry by fitting him out with a rubber apron. He can readily be taught enough skill and care to keep him from spilling so much water that he will wet his shoes and stockings. Under these conditions even the apartment house child can have his fill of water play.

In the bath tub his operations can be on a large scale. Here he can sail his fleet encountering storms and shipwrecks. He can fish for his celluloid frogs and fish and turtles. He can pour in and out of large buckets, learning something of motor trol necessary in manipu heavy things in lifting, tilting pouring from them. In this s play his imagination and his cles are equally active.

Standing on a substantial or a solid chair at the ki sink he can have a dif kind of fun. He should ha his equipment aluminum cu different sizes, shallow pans, and a soap bubble apparatus possibilities are inexhaustible child will be absorbed for an at a time. He loves to pour endlessly from one pan to an He tries to lift a full pan w spilling any. He learns th takes several small cups to large one. He finds out h turn the water taps, regulat streams, and get either hot o as he pleases.

When we see these simple pations from the child's po view we realize that here ar portunities in every home fo as educational as many of th times offered at nursery and kindergarten.

Washington Daily Letter

WASHINGTON—Without disputing the genuineness of Germany's hardships, the best informed perhaps of all the advisers of the Washington administration concerning conditions in the fatherland takes the view that the Berlin government has adopted a policy of emphasizing them to their amximum in international negotiations. This, the adviser believes, is done as a means of diverting Teutonic resentment, if possible, from the government itself into a foreign channel, hoping it will dissipate itself thus instead of developing dangerously at home.

"That there is ground for anxiety," said this authority, whom I am not at liberty to name, but who recently returned from a tour of every important western European country, "is undeniable. More than a fourth of Germany's labor is unemployed.

"The other three-quarters still suffer from the high cost of living for, although gross commodity prices have declined, retail figures are little if any lower and now a vigorous wage reduction campaign has begun.

"Nevertheless in some respects the German situation is not so bad. While exports have fallen off the slump is less than in America, for example. Allowance being made for price changes, the loss in physical quantities is under 7 per cent.

"Also, despite the depression, Germany managed to secure foreign funds to a much greater total in 1930 than 1929, with the result that her factories have been able to lay in large stocks of imported raw materials at low prices.

"The nation's economic straits, although painful, might be considerably worse."

"The political peril may be graver.
